The brick framework that we call Jefferson High School is only a shell of walls until it is filled with voices:

voices that join in "Forward the Red, Forward the Black,"

"Hellos" that brighten the day, laughter that rings from the cafeteria,

cheers that announce a school victory,

strains of "Sons of Jefferson" that fade in the gym.

These voices are heard in our community as well as in our school. Every student who has attended Jeff helps to perpetuate the principles and the proud traditions which for fifty years have echoed from the entrance door of the school to countless thresholds of the world.

On this, our Golden Year, we bring you . . .

THE SPIRIT OF JEFF

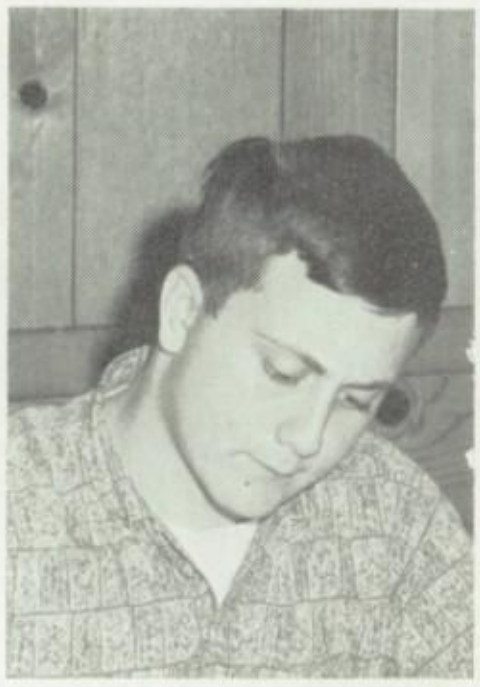
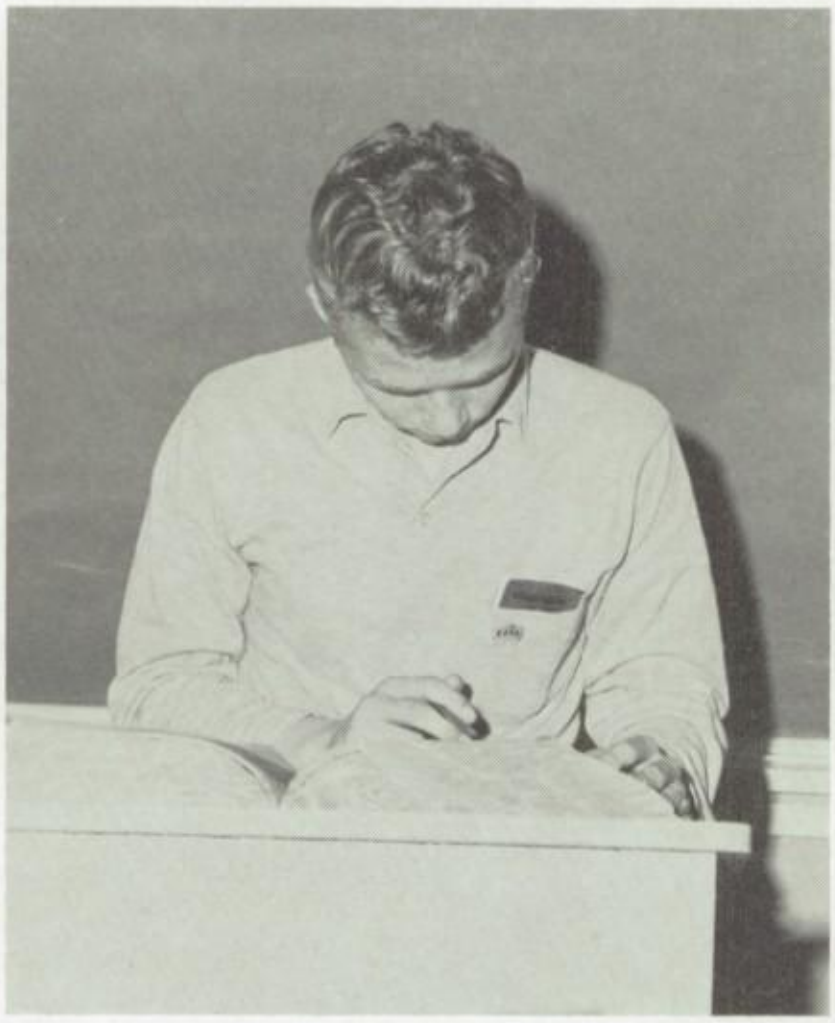
JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT provides business experience for students in this area.



Academic achievement is foremost in our lives at Jeff. For fifty years futures have been molded in our classrooms. A significant acknowledgement of our scholarship and knowledge is the special first-rate state award which we received this year; so it is with pride that we present . . .

OUR SPIRIT OF LEARNING

English Improves Our Basic Knowledge



ALBERT DANAHER checks his homework with a dictionary.

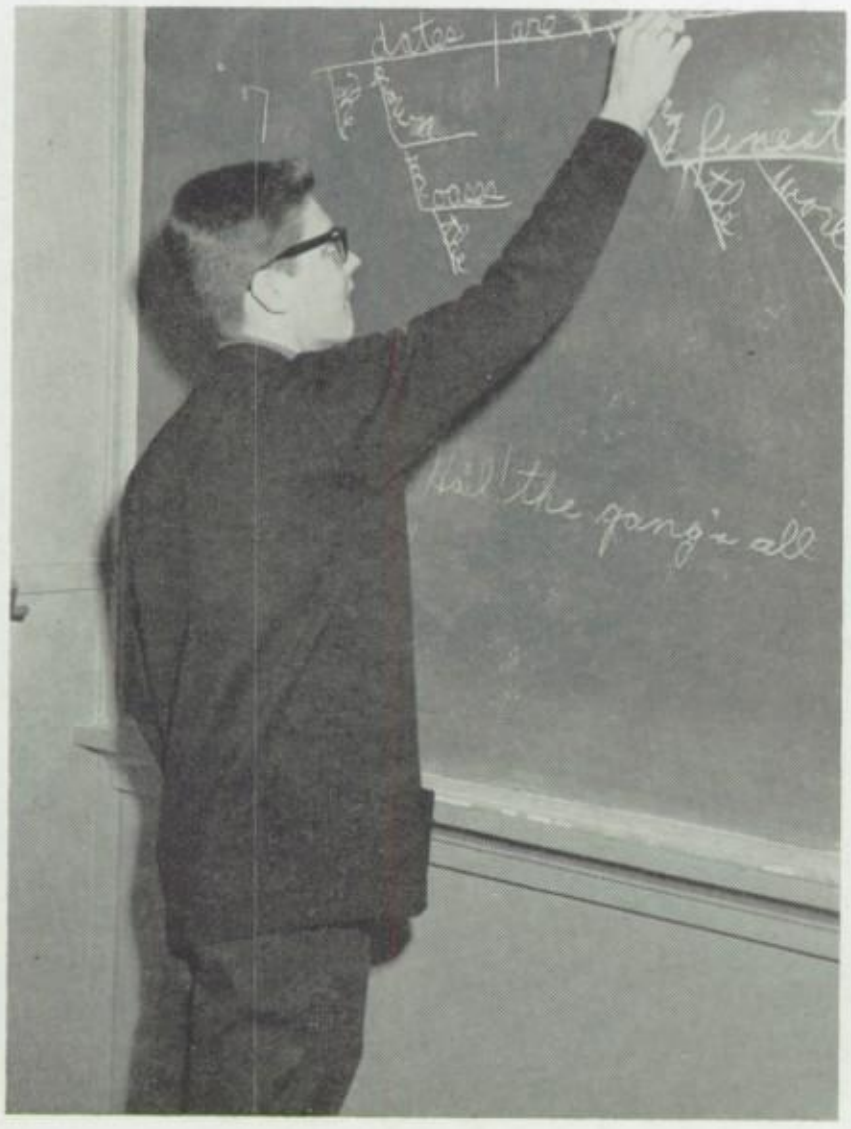
Armed with only an English book, the student prepares for his three-year battle with his native language. Commas must be strategically placed, sentence structure must be strengthened, and the principles of unity must be utilized before the all important "A" is captured.

All students are armed with at least one semester of English grammar and one semester of literature during both the junior and sophomore years. Composition is offered to those students who are planning to carry the "fight" to college. Journalism is offered to any student who is planning to make a career of writing. A new course at Jeff, Creative Writing, is offered to those students who are especially talented and have imagination. These and many other forms of English, each designed to meet the needs of the student, are offered at Jeff.

IN-CLASS THEMES cause worry, thought, and even glee for Miss Griffin's Composition class.

REFERENCE MATERIAL is important to Patty Sawyer.

DIAGRAMMING SENTENCES, Ardith Huff considers the structure.



TELEVISION REVIEWS are the assignments for these literature students of Mrs. Wray.

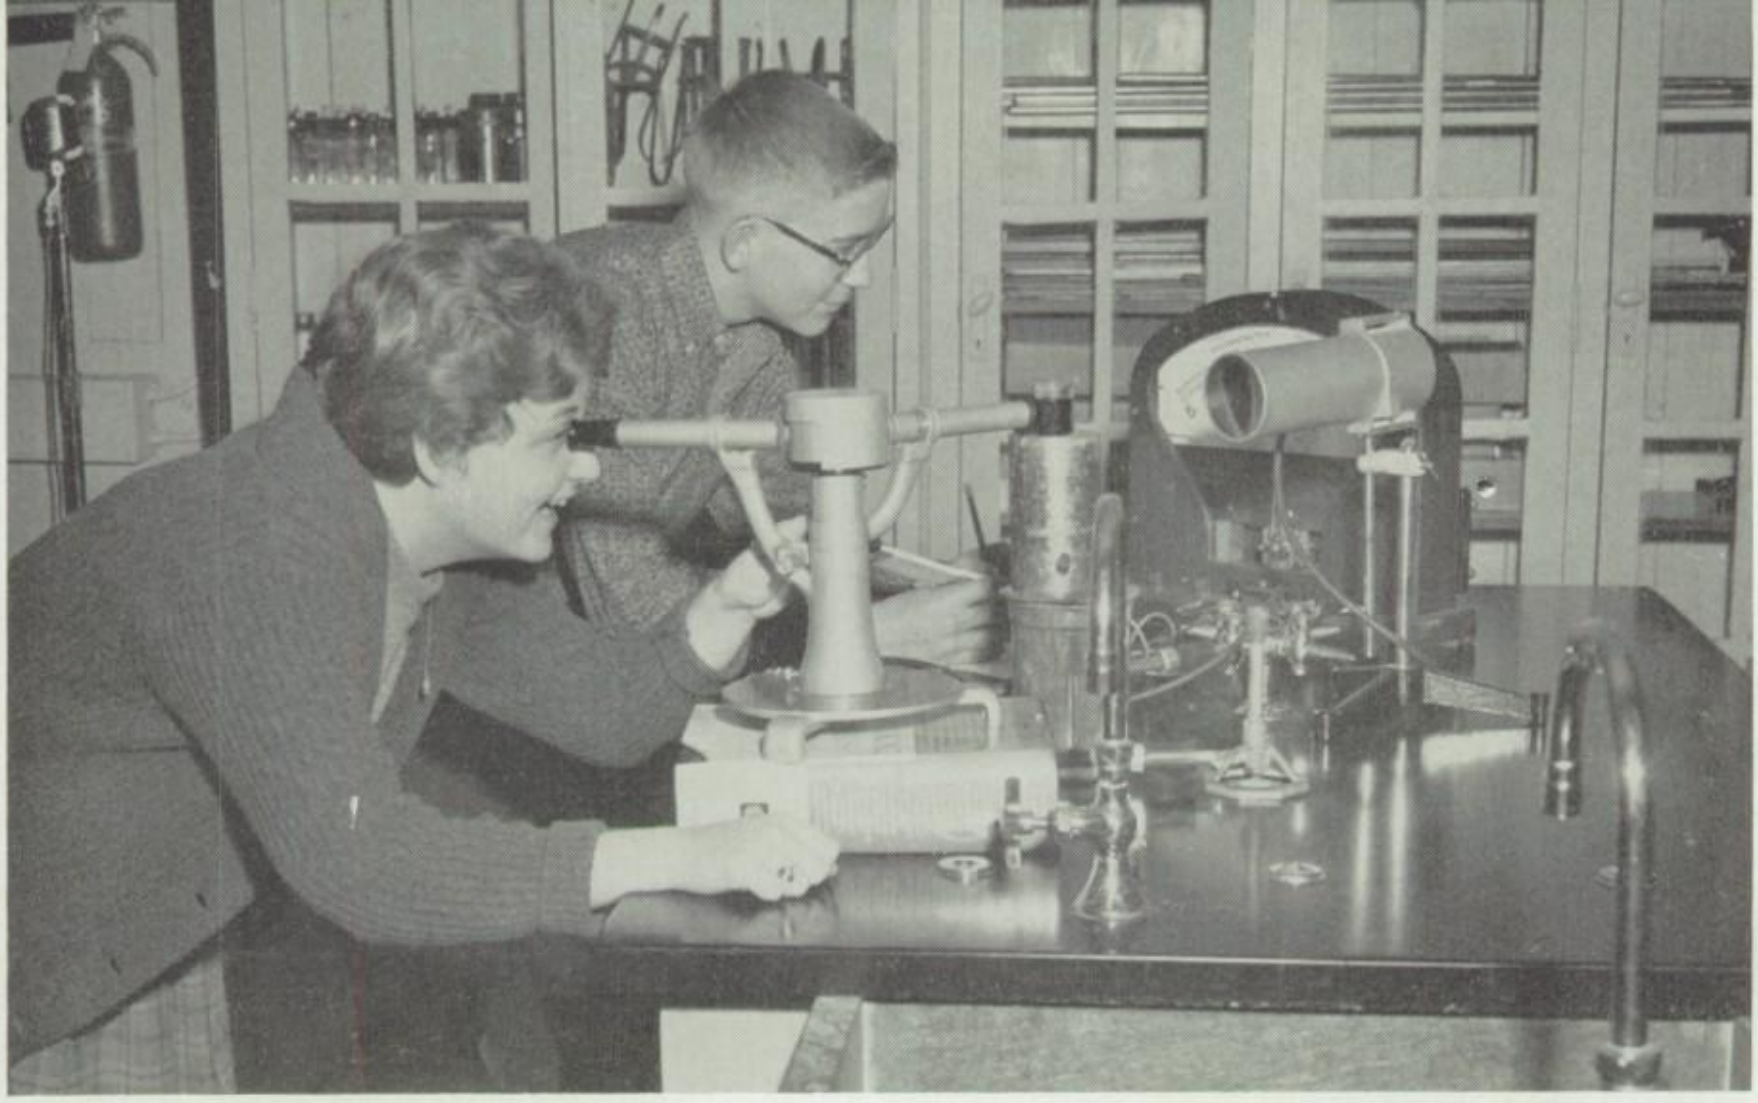
MARILYN BOOTHE types her chemistry experiment.

EXPERIMENTS are performed by Dick Zimmerman and Ed Jackson who find them tedious but interesting.

RESULTS are submitted to the teacher by Dave Haun.



A NEW DISCOVERY! Physics equipment catches the fascination of Gary Lahr and Bernadette Fairchild.

World of Science Invites Thought

Although Aladdin's lamp exists only in fairy tales, we still continue to desire all the luxuries of which Aladdin dreamed. We want to eliminate the hazards of life, provide for permanent plenty, and pry into Nature's secrets. For all this man requires a genie who is powerful, constant, and reliable. This genie is science.

Science reveals a world of knowledge to the inquisitive mind. To the biology student, science discloses the secrets of life. Nature's mysteries become common information to the pupil.

Chemistry probes into the composition of matter and into the physical and chemical changes that matter undergoes.

Physics deals with materials that do not involve a change in composition.

Jeff students, through our science courses, are learning to utilize the genie of science.

EARLY MORNING BLUES for Louisa Lasher when she attaches her burner to the water faucet by mistake.

Mathematics: Challenge to Comprehension

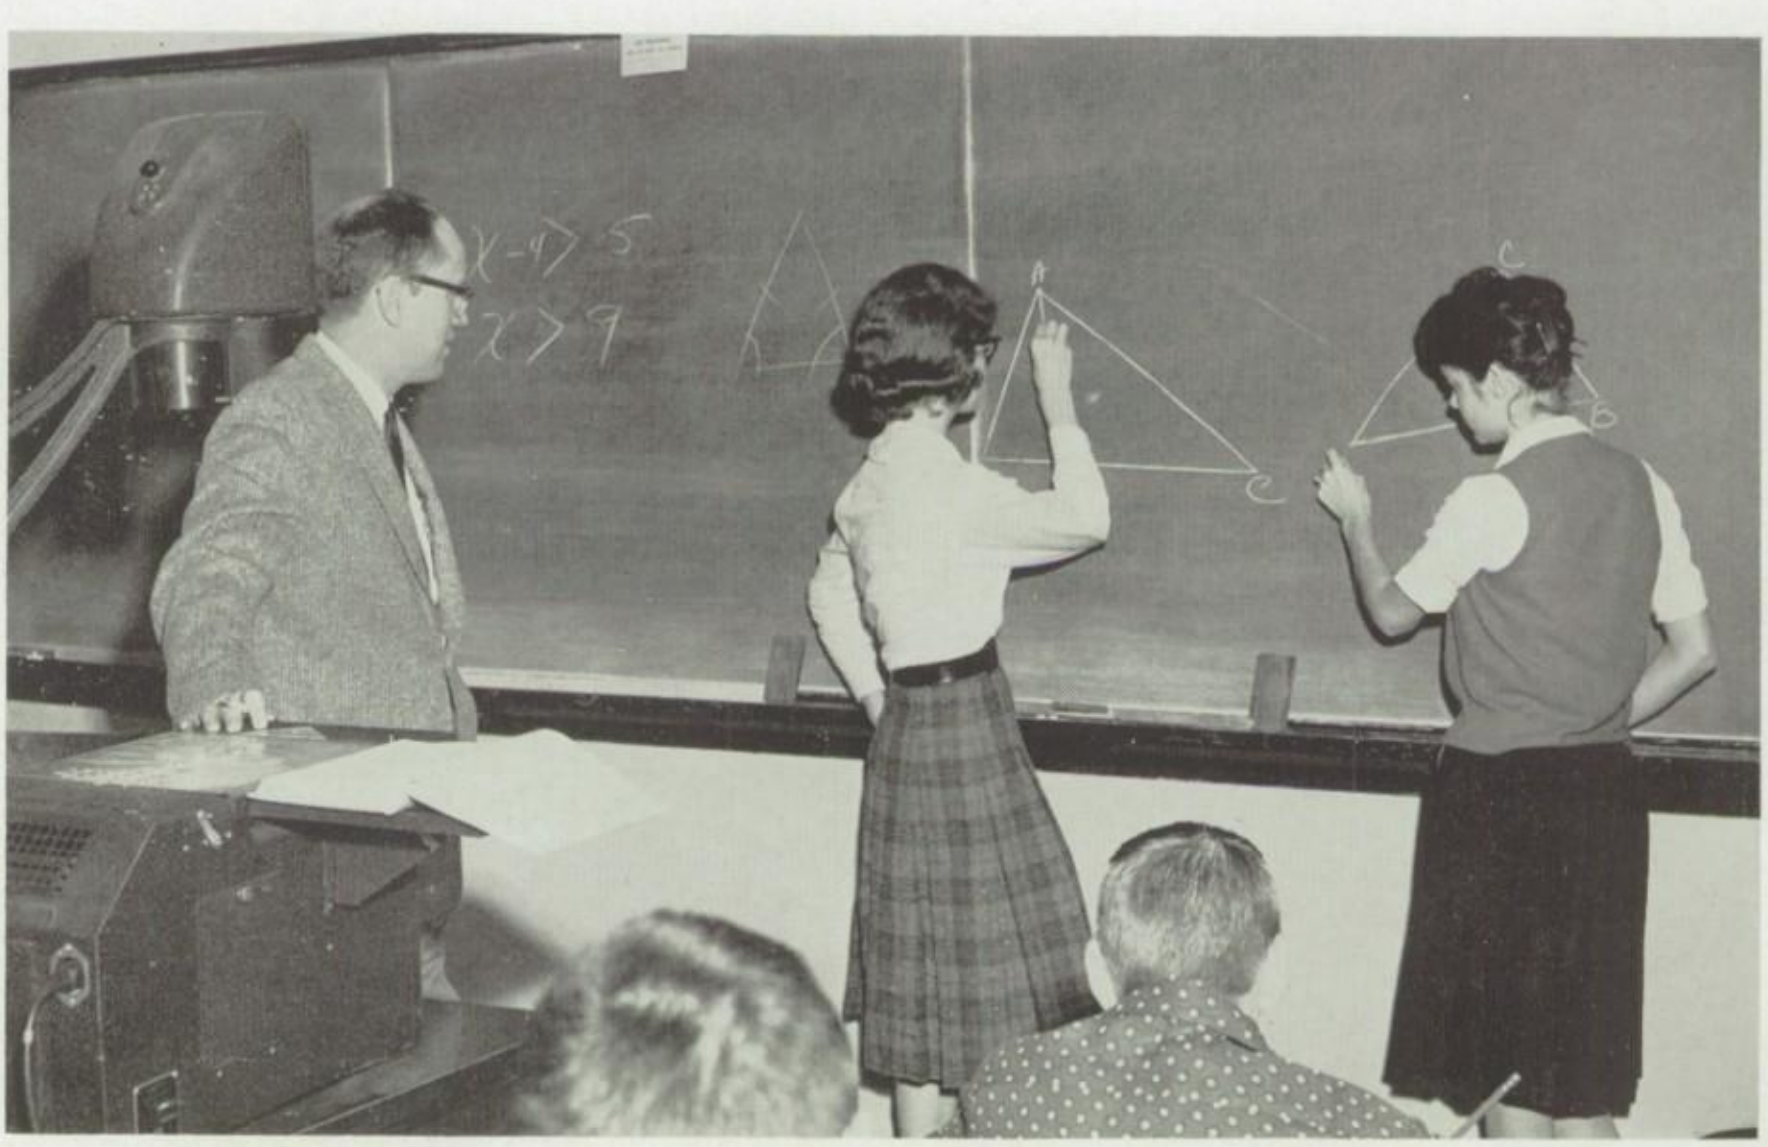
MR. REEVE and Jim Walker calculate a math problem with the aid of a king-size slide rule.

Are you fascinated by figures, mystified by multiplication, and left speechless by logarithms? If so, be counted among several hundred other math students.

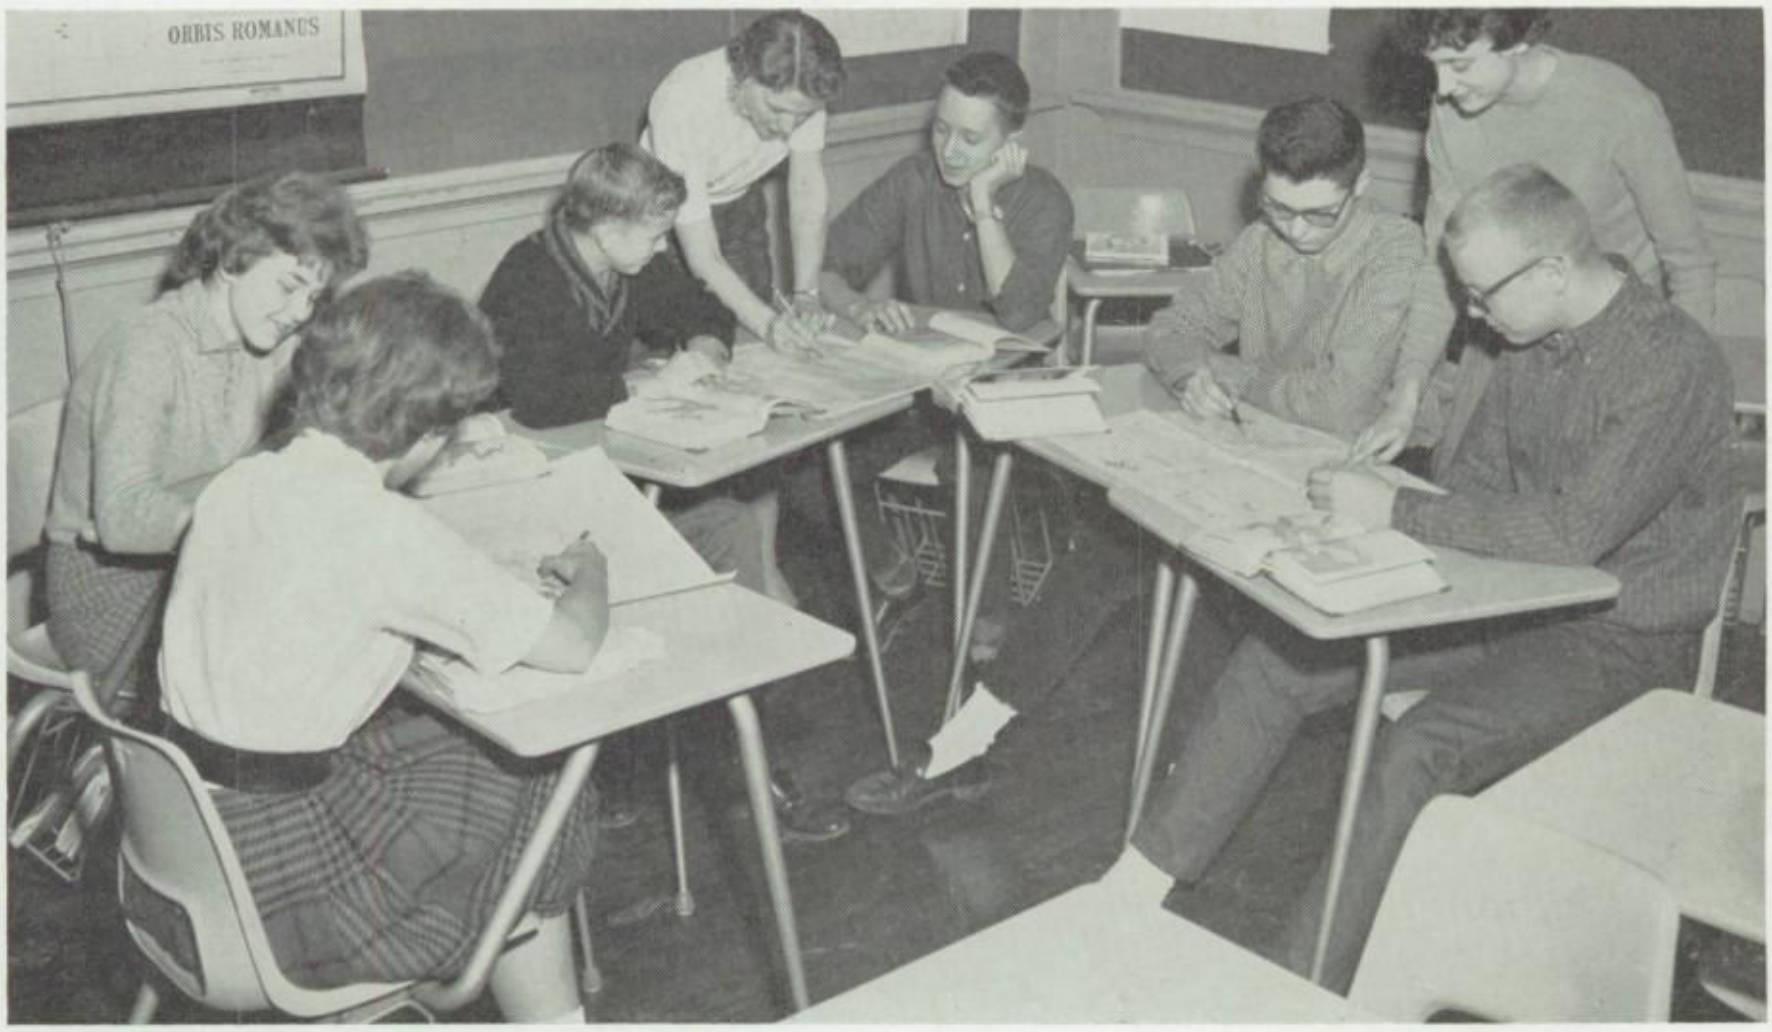
Theorems, propositions, and proofs offer a challenge to the even most receptive minds of future mathematicians.

Advanced and college algebra as well as trigonometry and solid geometry provoke studious concentration and maximum effort from advanced math students. Straight thinking and logical reasoning as well as accuracy and speed are invaluable talents cultivated and strengthened after hours of study.

Senior math is offered to students who need extra fundamental drills. Instructors guide the student through mathematical mazes.



TERRY BONHORST and Sharon Haddock duplicate two triangles demonstrated on the projector.



TWO HEADS ARE BETTER THAN ONE! Miss Griffin's Latin pupils industriously study a map of Ancient Rome.

Language of other Peoples Offers Culture

One of the finer and more exciting forms of relaxation is traveling. Today, more and more, people are beginning to travel to far away places. In order to fully enjoy these vacations one must be able to understand the communication carried on among the people along with the history of the country. Students are shown by movies and books the kinds of life carried on by these foreign people. Latin students work on special projects, and study the battle lines of many famous Roman wars. The students of German and Spanish carry on conversations in their respective languages.

When a student has finished one of these basic languages, he feels he has broken the ice toward learning the many languages of the world.

"TAPE RECORDINGS aid students to speak a foreign language with fluency," states Mr. McGlothlin.

Roots of Our Country Branch to nuclear

BARB HAWKS questions Mr. Mauer about exotic cities.

World History, like an immense tree, branches to the farthest boundaries of civilization and presents the pupil with problems of mankind.

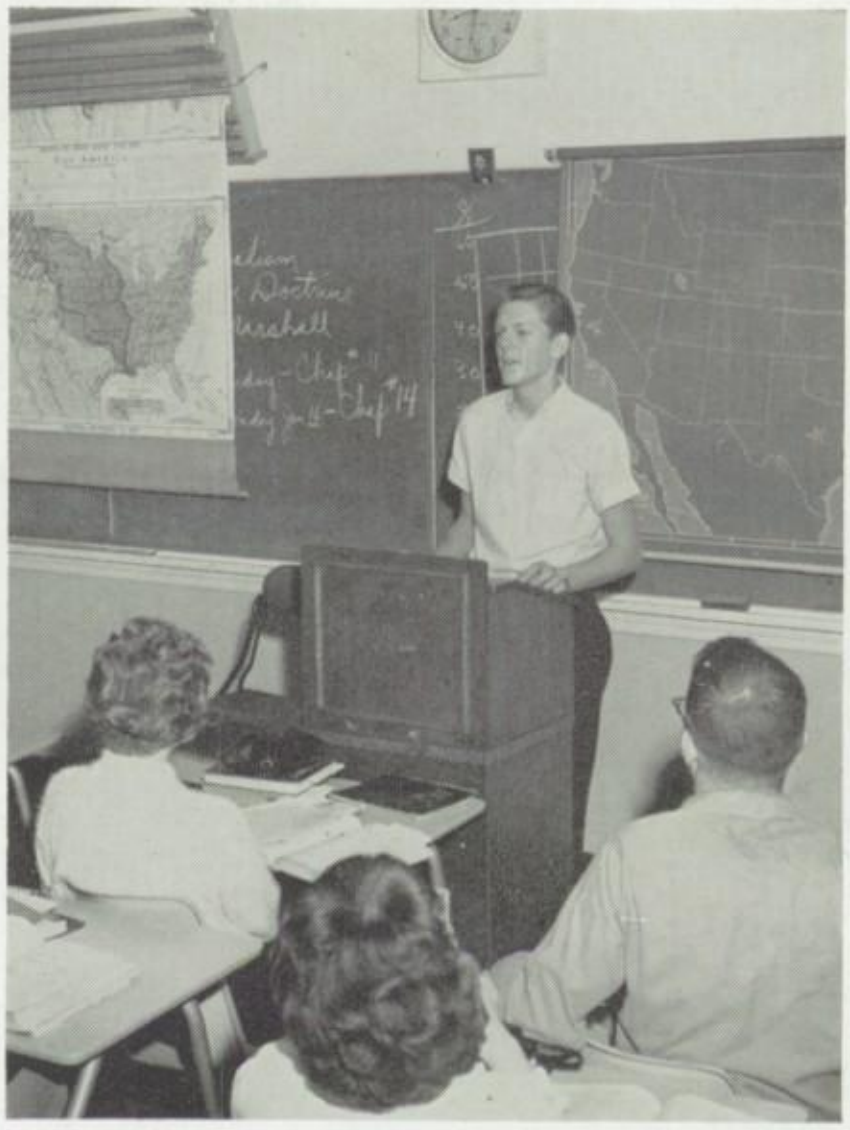
In a span of one-hundred and eighty-five years our own America has grown from a small, unstable seedling to a staunch country. During this period we as a people have registered many notable achievements for our country's record. In order to prepare our future leaders for the tasks which lie before them, we must have knowledge and understanding of the country's affairs. It is necessary, therefore, that all juniors take U. S. History. This course tries to enhance the interest of the pupils in their country and to emphasize the benefit to mankind that has occurred from the development of great democratic ideas.

BOB SKADBURG presides over a class discussion as Pete Bannon reviews a current issue.

power, economic scales, and backward countries

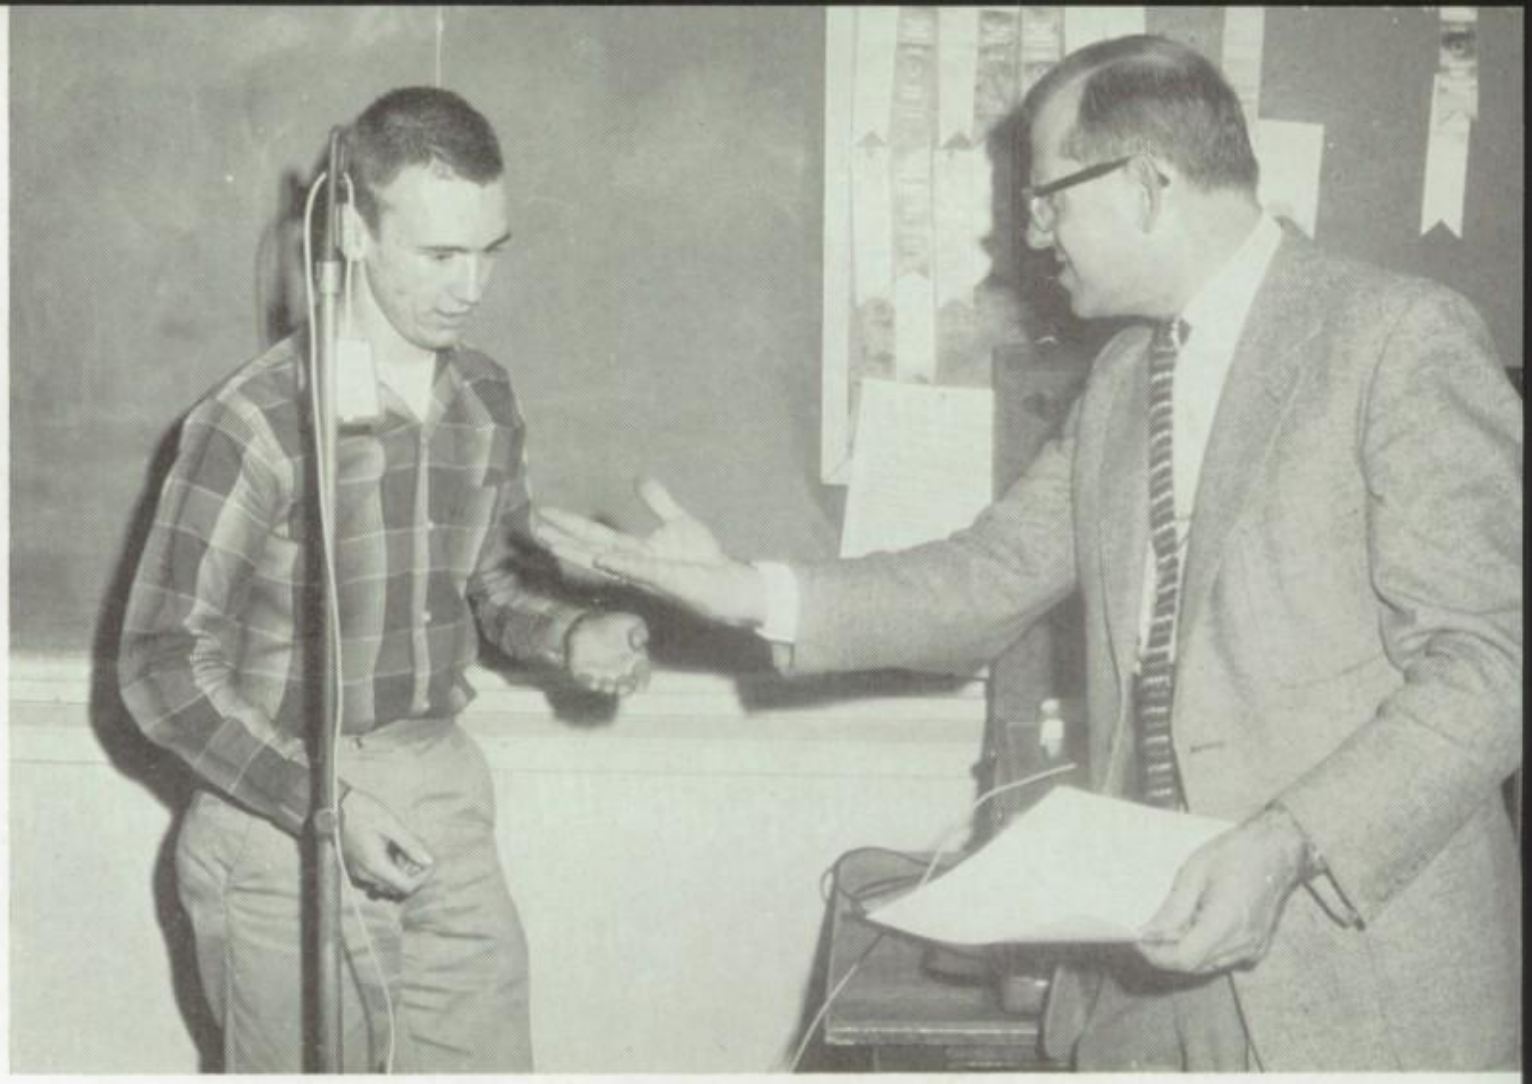
Discussions, debates, and disputes concerning the popular presidential campaign arose excitedly among seniors in the Civics classes. The students were informed not only about federal, but also our state government activities by Mr. Ellis Hopkins. The ABC's of voting in Indiana, all out to register and vote for better government by, of, and for the citizens who care, was one governmental phase taught by Mr. H. L. Short to his civics classes.

Other related courses in the civics unit included Sociology, the study of the origin and history of society; Indiana Life, a review of Indiana's history beginning with its admission to the Union in 1816, taught by Mr. Raymond Bender; and Economics, the study of the science of production and distribution of wealth, which was instructed by Mrs. Edythe Hopkins.



"The Principles of the Monroe Doctrine are . . . " Terry O'Connell recites about early-American history.

Nita Carter retraces travels of history's explorers.



GESTURES! Mr. Hawker emphasizes to Jerry Brown how gestures are of key importance in speech

Rewards of Speech: Versatility and Poise

Heart in throat, unstable legs, and emotionally tense is a vivid description of a beginner in Speech about to deliver his first oration. With months of drill on vocabulary, gestures, speaking techniques, one will eventually be able to speak with poise and self-assurance.

Speech is not only the study of proper deliverances of speeches, but it is a basic English course. Three-fourths of our communication is oral; consequently an individual may benefit from learning to speak his language fluently as well as learning to write it.

In the advanced Speech courses one will learn to express his conception of a work of art or of a subject called interpretation. Extemporaneous speaking will be of value to the student because of the short preparation time involved.

EASTER BONNET FASHIONS are modeled by Tara Balfe as Ginny Gould creates a hat with a bread-basket base.

Artists Pursue Paths of Individuality

An idea and a dab of muted or brilliant paints combined with the precise sweep of an artist's brush produces a painting. Hours of work on a clay sculpture create a figurine. A painting is etched on a metal plate. All of these processes take time, talent, imagination, and the desire for flawlessness, qualities which the future artists at Jeff strive to perfect.

The artist may wish to specialize in interior decorating while basically learning the combinations of color trends. On the other hand, an artist may wish to concentrate on profiles, caricature, or just the fun of dabbling in finger paints. The Art Department helps to discover what one's real talents are in the art field and lays a definite background for him.

The Art Department also endeavors to instill the competitive spirit in each student. Jeff artists not only compete here, but they contend with other schools on the state and national level.

ELLEN MINK poses for Roger Circle as he sketches a charcoal portrait of her face.

JANE DVORNIK, using her prize-winning model, demonstrates the talent of sculpturing to fellow students.

Daily Lives Demands Business "Know-How"

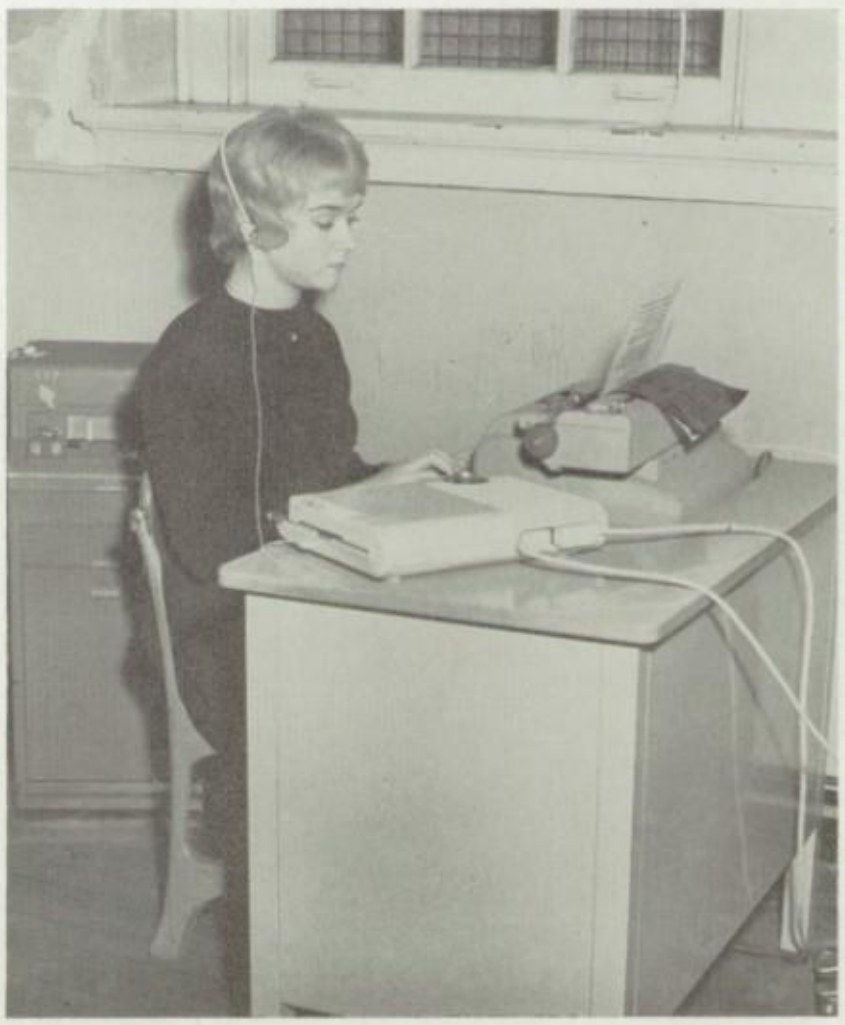
WHETHER IT BE COMPLETING a manuscript or taking a timed-writing test, typing students hustle to finish.

As the demand for secretaries, accountants and bookkeepers increases, opportunities in the varied fields are becoming exceedingly great. Jeff prepares its students for the future by offering courses which will be useful in future occupations.

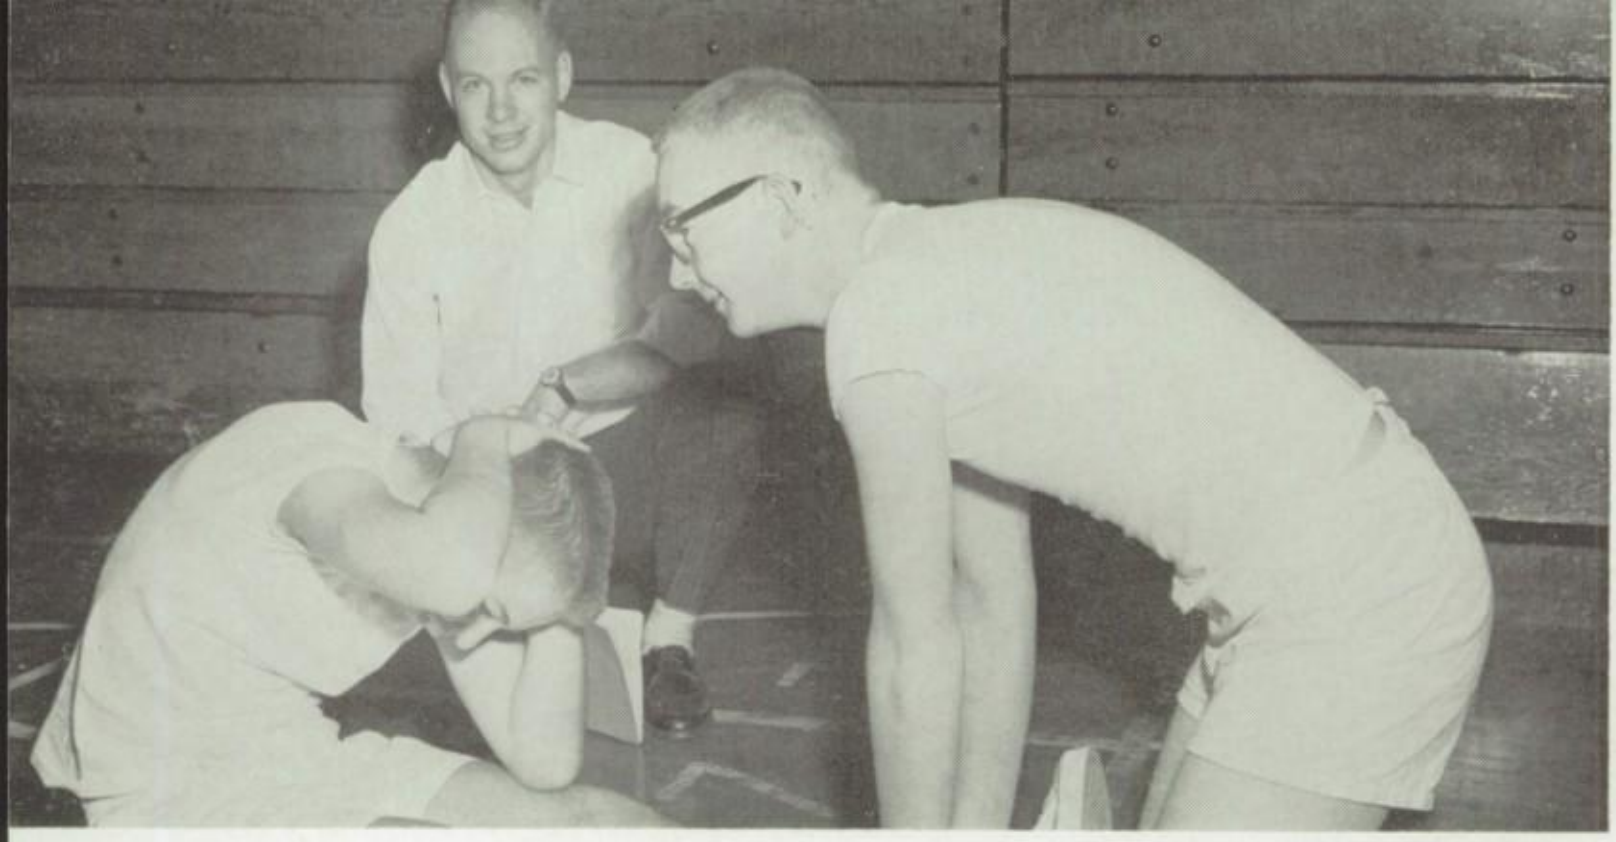
If one plans to someday be the head secretary to a large firm, the student would profit by taking office practice, a course which accustoms them with the duties of a secretary.

Perhaps he'd rather be in the management end of a firm. Merchandising, bookkeeping, and business law are directed to the students who are interested in business administration.

Whether a student plans to go on to college or go directly into the business field, he will profit by the shorthand courses. Shorthand enables one to take notes faster, while in business —well, it's practically a necessity.



DIANE SHADLEY transcribes her typing exercise with the assistance of the dictaphone.



DAVE HAYS aids a gym student in limbering up exercises.

Physical fitness Complements Mental Adjustment

Blue gym suits, showers, and name tags mean physical education. In a world becoming more and more automatically controlled, we need to know how to exercise our bodies to keep them physically fit. Without exercise our bodies would soon become inefficient and our muscles would become toneless.

Physical exercise can also serve as a most effective means of relaxation. Physical education teaches us how to exercise our bodies to relieve moments of tension and frustration.

During the required two years of gym classes our physical education program stresses skills in volleyball, basketball and body mechanics for both boys and girls. From these the girls' gym classes subdivides into shuffleboard, table tennis, and badminton while the boys are diverted toward more strenuous exercise.

"NO NEED FOR SORE WRISTS!" states Miss Hilkert as she demonstrates the proper techniques of a volley ball serve to sophomore onlookers.

Health and Safety is Prominent In Our Lives

"FIRST-AID DAY is really a treat!" Carol Martin, Pam Seymore, and Roberta Lamb happily take part in the event.

"If the face is red, raise the head. If the face is pale, raise the tail." In the girls' and boys' health classes one will learn the importance of this rule in first-aid along with many other necessary steps to be followed in case of emergency. Along with this is taught the bone structure and the location of all vital organs. During the semester course students are also taught to understand themselves and understand the actions of others when they study how our environments affect us and our personalities.

What is the proper attire to be worn to school? Yes, even this is discussed in the health classes. So whether one's problem be a swollen ankle or a question about social etiquette, either Mr. Martin or Mrs. Price include these various subjects in their wide range of Modern Health.

STRATEGY is of utmost importance for Pam Guenther as she parks this Driver's Education car.

You're awaiting the thrill that comes once in a lifetime. To you it's the most important jump in your sixteen years, except maybe the day you got that shiny new two-wheeler. You are about to get your driver's license. The state says you're old enough. But do you have the experience to challenge the many motor vehicles of today? There are many students at Jeff who face this same question. That's why we have a driver's training class. Under the direction of Mr. Norm Willey, the students learn moral driving responsibilities along with good mental driving sense. Their study consists of driving in many different situations, such as the traffic of Main Street. Taken during study hall for one six-week's period, many students gain the confidence needed to be a good driver.

JIM TAYLOR and Tom Brouwer align a plank of wood against an electrical sawing machine.

Manual skills produce coordination and dexterity

Have you ever been puzzled by the construction of a light bulb, by the function of an electric blender, or by the stability of a new modernistic, ten-story building?

Versatility is a word that well describes Jefferson's Manual Skills Program. The courses range from electricity to printing and mechanical drawing.

In many boys' lives a special place is usually saved for his dream pet, a car. Auto mechanics enables boys to bring their "hot rods" to school and discover just how they "tick."

Modernistic buildings require much careful planning and construction. Through mechanical drawing, pupils learn how to make blue prints for structures while gaining practice in preciseness. Wiring of a building often proves very technical, but with proper instruction, the job is done and the building has lights and heat.

These courses provide the pupil with material to consider for a future vocation.

SETTING THE PRINT type for Booster publication are John Wien and Gayln Neyhart.

Housewifery Holds Interest for Girls

Sizzling steaks! Steaming Boston baked beans! Fresh pecan pie! The tempting aromas which arise from these tasty dishes have inspired the modern girl to master the art of cooking. Just as the art of painting requires practice, so does cooking. An artist dabs with various colors to create a mood, so the chef alters food by adding ingredients and seasonings.

It is a standard idea that Grandma's old-fashioned cooking secrets can not be surpassed, but with modern equipment available, girls have opportunities to prepare a midnight snack or a five course dinner.

The modern girls are also one step ahead of Grandma's sewing apparatus. The modern sewing machines enable today's seamstresses to produce exquisite creations.

FINISHING TOUCHES are added to their sewing products by Linda Tracy and Judy Derment.

REGINA SCHRADER samples the refreshments offered by Linda Goodnight at the Home Economics Tea.

Shelves of Knowledge: Haven for Students

YULETIDE SPIRIT appears in Jeff's library. Rita Gregory and Carol Dunn add glitter to the Christmas tree.

CARMIE BELL decorates the Library's bulletin board with traditional Irish good-luck charms.

Do stories of intrigue and suspense beckon you? Or do you prefer to relax with a book of poetry? Whatever your choice, our library is a haven, with books to satisfy any taste.

Every senior will testify to the benefits of our library when research paper time approaches. Information contained in current periodicals, both educational and entertaining, provides interesting, informative topics for speeches, themes, and special reports. From encyclopedias to fiction the Jeff library is a wealth of knowledge.

For the first time the Library Department issued striking book covers in red and black with a Jefferson broncho embossed upon them. Besides protecting one's biology or history book, the cover added spirit and pride to the user.

Specific interests and group enjoyment are the ingredients which have inspired organizations for years. Members change and projects vary; but the gavel brings the same hush, and enthusiasm still brings success. At Jeff we have the results of many years of group activity and the source is . . .

"The chair recognizes . . . ," "I propose . . . ," "The motion has been voted upon and approved . . . ," so goes the weekly Wednesday morning meetings of Student Council, the governing body of our school. Each homeroom elects one member and one alternate; thus, there are approximately 54 members in the Council.

One of the main purposes of the organization is to promote a friendlier relationship between the students, faculty, and administrators. The Student Council's functions range from setting up class elections to the Homecoming Coronation.

DECORATED GOAL POSTS make homecoming! Jim Walker, Jim Hurst, and Jim Leslie add final trimmings.

Hi-Y Council Is Policy-Making Body

"Organization with representation" is the principle upon which the Hi-Y Council is based. The Council consists of three representatives from each class who strive to make the Hi-Y a more successful organization. The Council is responsible for advising and guiding all divisions of the Hi-Y toward beneficial service to club, school, and community. The Hi-Y Council acts as the treasurer for all branches of the organization as well as coordinating the activities of all Hi-Y's and acting as policy-making body of the organization. The President is Jim McDonald, and the Secretary-Treasurer is Mike Douglass.

INITIATION OF NEW MEMBERS is being conducted by Senior Hi-Y'ers, Jerry Rush and Jim Leslie.

The toasting of marshmellows on an open fire followed by a frolicking ride on mounds of hay on that chilly October evening highlighted the Senior Hi-Y's annual hayride.

When Yuletide season approached, the Hi-Y demonstrated the giving spirit and provided a Christmas basket for a needy family.

To create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character throughout the home and community is the primary goal for the Senior Hi-Y members.

The junior Hi-Y members, having been introduced into the organization as sophomores, continued to extend their Christian Character during the 1960-61 school year by distributing pamphlets for the Y.M.C.A. and assisting the Wabash School for Exceptional Children.

"Principals of American Democracy" was the subject of a speech given by a Russian instructor from Purdue University at a February convocation on Americanism sponsored by the Junior Hi-Y.

Sports, scholastic activities, and home life are important to most high school boys. Through the sophomore Hi-Y club the boys are encouraged to use good Christian practices in these areas.

Getting their initial experience in planning the traditional Queen of Hearts Dance, the sophomore members of the Hi-Y begin their orientation by selling the dance tickets, and holding menial committee positions.

Christmas and Easter were brought to the school by the sophomore Hi-Y club when the members furnished and decorated the Christmas tree and sponsored the Easter convocation.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT is present everywhere. Claude Sawyer adds an ornament to the tree.

Getting into the swing of school, Tri-Hi-Y hosted a kick-off party for any new Jeff girl interested in becoming a member of the organization. The girls signed their names to the roster and settled back to listen to reports from students who had attended school-affiliated conferences during the summer.

The gals and their dates, stuffed to the brim with turkey, exercised by celebrating Thanksgiving night at the annual Turkey Trot. The December meeting was devoted to the sponsoring and organizing of the county-wide Youth Carols for Christ. February 16, 1961, Mr. Terry Dischinger, 1960 Olympic basketball star, spoke to the joint Tri-Hi-Y-Hi-Y meeting about the importance of good citizenship.

Sunshiners Work for the Benefit of Others

A smile is a friendly gesture, a communication which radiates a special quality of warmth toward others, and "Others" are the chief concern of the Sunshine members.

The "Big Sister" project is designed to assist new students in becoming acquainted and accustomed to Jeff's many colorful traditions. The club sells and delivers carnations for "that special one" on Valentine's Day.

The organization sponsors fun for everyone with the annual Bronchoette Gallop. The Mother-Daughter Banquet and Father-Daughter Banquet help to cement relationships between the teenagers and their parents.

Officers were Marilyn Boothe, president; Janet Beckstrand, Vice-President; and Pat Lyboult, Secretary.

Jeff Speakers Provide Keen Competition

The city is sleeping, the streets are blanketed in mist, and the clock strikes four in the morning. Thirty brave souls project their half-sleeping bodies into a school bus on the corner of Ninth and Brown Streets. This isn't an unusual Saturday morning for Speech Coach James Hawker as he checks the names of his team members.

The Jeff chapter of the National Forensic League is the first in the state. It has 73 members, whose combined efforts won eight meets and lost only one. Jeff held the Speech Championships of the N.F.L. State and the Open State meets from last year.

A CUT from the dramatic interpretation, "J. B.," is given by Janice LaPlante.

Broadcasters Gain Radio and TV Poise

"Stand by . . . 5 . . . 4 . . . 3 . . . 2 . . . 1!" is the suspense-filled countdown given to a nervous Broncho Broadcaster. The time is every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:00 p.m. as Jeff takes to the air with its Broncho Highlights, a program of Jeff news.

In December ten of the members attended the Indiana University Clinic for Indiana High School Broadcasters. This provided an added opportunity for learning better broadcasting methods and the problems arising in commercial radio and television.

Chuck Lynch fulfilled the office of President. Barbara Price and Jackie Rae were Vice-President and Secretary, respectively. The club elected Pat Miller as Treasurer.

TARI MARTIN takes to the air and broadcasts Broncho Highlights while Mr. Fraser and Sally Ingleman give cues.

Tomorrow's Teachers Begin Training Today

President	Joyce Hughes
Vice President	Mike Lemond
Secretary	Fanchon Pattee
Treasurer	Sharon Serey
Chaplain	Nona McDowell

Future Teachers of America, commonly referred to as F.T.A., attempts to select and recruit young people who are interested in teaching and to help them to learn more about the education profession in order that someday they can be a first-rate teacher.

One of the club's projects, exploratory teaching in various elementary schools in Lafayette, gives each member an idea of what teaching is actually like.

One graduating F.T.A. member, who plans to enter the teaching profession and who has contributed most, in terms of effort and interest, to the club, will be given a scholarship.

JOYCE HUGHES and Bernie Fairchild extend their hospitality to Miss Paras, student teacher.

FNA Adapts Girls to Nurse's Duties

FNA

Broken bones, feverish brows, and colds are a few victims' ailments. The soothing touch of a gentle nurse soon comforts the lanquid patients. The Nurse has many varied duties, ranging from recording a temperature to assisting an operation.

Jeff's Future Nurses Club endeavors to broaden the members' views concerning the medical field. They traveled to Chicago and visited a hospital. At an interview at Saint Elizabeth Hospital, the girls were informed about the opportunities for the occupation of nursing and other related health fields.

Irene Harrison served as president of the group, while Janet Steward and Sue Dorrah assisted her as Vice-President and Secretary-Treasurer, respectively.

Key Club Edits Student Directory

Many of the leaders of tomorrow will proudly boast that they were active members of the Jeff Key Club. These young men will realize the experience they gained from activities such as the Christmas party for the underprivileged.

The organization was successful this year in publishing a hand book known as the Jeff Key which contained the names, addresses, and phone numbers of all Jeff students.

Did you ever wonder who changes the display case which proudly exhibits our country's great historical documents? The club is responsible for this, along with taking part in the UNICEF Drive, and holding a Parent Appreciation Banquet.

At the November meeting, Mr. William Hockema of the Lafayette Life Insurance Company discussed with the club "Qualifications of a Beginning Office Worker."

The money making projects were sponsoring a mixer and working at concession stands during the basketball games. The receipts from these projects aided the girls in paying for their Christmas party and annual Senior Members Dinner.

Instilling in students an appreciation of literature is the difficult task to which the library club is devoted. The members of the library club provide an opportunity for students interested in library procedure to become better acquainted with library methods. Decorative bulletin boards which motivate wider reading are designed by members of the club.

A Book Week Tea was held during National Book Week. Parties and picnics were also a part of the agenda for this year. A Christmas party highlighted the year's events. Still another activity was a mixer.

All eyes are on the movie screen, and the show begins. The students are about to see another one of the 400 educational films shown throughout the school year with the cooperation of the Audio-Visual Club.

Organized in 1948, it now boasts 19 members. The boys specialize in showing both films and slides. Operating tape recorders and record players, along with maintaining the equipment, has been added to the duties of the audio-visual boys. They held a mixer after one of the basketball games.

Business Cooperates with D.C.E. Program

Service Station attendants, department store clerks, and blue-print developers—these various jobs are all maintained by Jeff pupils. As Diversified Cooperative Education (also called D.C.E.) members, they do more than go to school five days a week. They also hold one of these outside jobs.

The officers, president, Sandy Hillhouse; vice-president, Elizabeth Hargis; and secretary-treasurer, Linda Applegate, lead the group of twenty-three members.

In order to thank these employers for their cooperation, the club holds a banquet during the year at one of the local restaurants.

Insight on Gov. Trains our Representatives

Teenagers theoretically operate the state government for two days each year. Officials of Boys' State and Girls' State preside as they represent Hoosier youth. Each year representatives from all over the state gather at Indiana University for one week for Girls' or Boys' State. These people are presented with convocations which feature nationally famous speakers, actual city trials, and leaders from the sponsoring American Legion.

For eight days members of the Federalist and Nationalist political parties carry the battle through miniature precincts, counties, state caucuses, conventions, and elections. Our representatives returned home with a deeper understanding for our democratic system, vivid experience of working with others, and new friends from the far points of the state.

Athletes Promote Sportsmanship, Fitness

Escorting the Homecoming Queen and her attendants from the football field is a pleasant duty for the "J" Club boys. One might also see them holding the ropes during half time to prevent over-zealous fans from entering the basketball courts. They also sponsor an annual picnic.

The "J" Club, sponsored by basketball coach Marion Crawley, is composed of top-ranking athletes who have earned their letters by active participation in one or more sports. Officers are Jerry Rush, President; Wilkie Terry, Vice President; Jim Leslie, Secretary; Tom Miller, Treasurer; and Ron Gilbert, Sergeant-at-Arms.

"The Autumn Leaves . . . ," ". . . at Grandmother's house on Thanksgiving Day . . . ," "Joy to the world . . . ," "Halleluja! . . . ," no matter what season of the year it may be, melodic tunes are echoed through Jeff's corridors by harmonious voices from the choir room.

Girls' Concert Choir is just one of the many musical-minded organizations at Jeff directed by Mr. Richard Jaeger. The club is for any girl who wishes to sing in a choir.

The girls participated in the Christmas convo, held a spring picnic, sponsored a car-wash and operated the laundromat.

Voices Respond with Ballads, Canticles, Jazz

The "Voices of Jeff," a highly versatile group of girls, under the direction of Mr. Richard Jaeger, specialize in music ranging from Bach to Broadway.

In October the group assembled at First Christian Church where they gave the opening program for the International Student Banquet.

Participating in the Christmas program held in the Sunnyside Auditorium, the "Voices" sang three songs of the religious holiday.

The singers presented various programs and the "Voices of Jeff" ended the year by traveling to Crawfordsville where they participated in another contest.

Madrigals Prepare Airborne TV Tapes

FUN-LOVING Madrigal members check each other's appearance before a performance.

In the early 1400's to the 1500's fine poetry was written on secular subjects. Then composers set these verses to choral music in rounds called madrigals.

At Jeff the Choral Department selected a group consisting of the best vocal students, and thus the group called themselves the Madrigal Singers.

The main purpose of this organization is to learn the blending of voices correctly, pitch sense, and appreciation of the more difficult music.

The Madrigal Singers participated in the District and State Music Contests. They have never received less than a first rating. The group gives a convo each year and performs for many school and city functions.

A distinctive honor was bestowed upon the Madrigal Singers. They have been asked to participate in the television films in Philadelphia to be broadcast in six states this spring.

Polished, Versatile Sound: Goal for Choir

Cantatas, spirituals, and impressionistic music form the repertoire of musical compositions of Jeff's A Cappella choir. Although these form a basis, approximately eighty members sing songs ranging from jazz to old English carols.

A Cappella, like an honor society for outstanding scholars, sets rigid qualifications for its contenders. The choir was featured at the Thanksgiving convo and also presented two concerts at Sunnyside and Tecumseh schools. In November A Cappella traveled to Indianapolis to see the Broadway hit, "Music Man." In April the group brought forth their annual musical.

A Cappella's officers are: Jerry Lintner, President; Sally Ingleman, Vice-President; Treasurer, Sue Mater; Secretary, Pam Ritter; and Historian, Kay Smith. The choir is under the direction of Mr. Richard Jaeger.

Majorettes Perform Precisioned Routine

ALMOST READY! Sharon Serey slips on her boots before her baton-twirling routine.

Nine majorettes along with the Broncho Band combined their talents in presenting the half-time performance for home football games and the pre-game entertainment at the basketball games.

Head majorette, Sharon Serey, and the other twirlers, Mary Ellen Serey, senior; Virginia Caylor and Peggy Sheets, juniors; and Sheryl Buckles, Karen Burns, Pam Balser, Karen Brown, and Marcia Murr, sophomores, participated in the dedication ceremonies of the William Henry Harrison Bridge. They also marched in the Christmas parade.

The majorettes had different outfits for every routine and season, such as dressing like Santa's helpers in the holiday tourney performance. The twirlers attended majorette camp for one week in Syracuse, Indiana, during the summer preceding the 1960-61 school year.

SHARON SEREY, Mary Ellen Serey, and Cheryl Buckles receive an approving smile from the spectators.

During the football season this group packed their potentials and journeyed to a few of the out-of-town games where their syncopation, mixed with the cries of over-excited fans proved encouraging to the football team.

Jeff Students Perfect Musical Talent,

ORCHESTRA MEMBERS return instruments to their stalls.

Down through the ages man has soothed and tranquilized his nerves with relaxing music. Man has perfected his musical talent to great degrees.

It is no wonder that Jeff students attempt to master such a useful and entertaining skill. The orchestra is especially responsible for promoting the performance and appreciation of good music.

This year the orchestra took an active part in the annual Christmas convo. Various concert performances rank high on the calendar of events for the year, while the orchestra's performance at the commencement ceremonies added to the sentiment and importance of the occasion.

The organization under the direction of Mr. Carroll Copeland strived to accomplish its purpose by acquainting the student body with good music.

Unity and precision are words that best describe the movements of the red and black clad marchers. Vivacious majorettes in eye-catching costumes add spirit and vitality to the half-time entertainment, while a high-stepping drum major in a top hat directs the group.

Half-time entertainment at home and away games is only part of the many activities in which the band participates. The band was also on hand to perform for the dedication of the new bridge. During the Christmas season, the marchers braved the gusty winds to perform in the Christmas parade.

Working at concessions and selling fruit-cakes during the Christmas season were only a few of the organization's many money making projects.

J. H. S. Chronicle Strives for Accuracy

Extra! Extra! Read all about it! "Jefferson Receives Special Commission; One of Top Twelve Schools in Indiana." This was one of the striking headlines of the Jeff Booster, our school newspaper, during the 1960-1961 school year.

Starting off the first semester with a "kick-off" convo, the Booster staff presented a parody of the King and I. The staff excelled their goal of sales for 80% of the student body.

"Jeff Excells in Many Areas," written above the showcase donated by the 1960 graduating class, has been adopted as the Booster's motto, and was printed below the name plate.

After a total of 14 publications the members of the Booster staff assembled for an awards banquet honoring the graduating seniors and outstanding writers.

Time and Toil Constitute the Nautilus

Twelve months of planning, photographing, writing, selling, and hoping are spent on the Nautilus. Co-Editors Carol Newhard and Barb Price spent two weeks during the summer at the High School Journalism Institute in Bloomington. When school began, the dummy, a replica of our book, was completed and each segment of the staff, supervised by Kenneth M. Andrews, took its own responsibility.

Armed with glue pots and rulers, we aimed for the deadline. The staff chose the cover, selected type faces, and initiated new policies. There is one essential for every staff member; he must be an idealist.

Pep Sessions Spur School Spirit

COACH SKIBINSKI congratulates Jerry Robinson as he hands him his J for football.

Academy Awards, cowboys, an Andy Griffith skit, and a Beatnik Santa Claus were some of the entertainment put on by the various organizations at our Pep-sessions.

Featured before home-coming, holiday tourneys, Regional and Sectional tournaments, and other important football and basketball games, these pep-sessions inspired in the student body that same spirit that a coach tries to impress upon his team.

Besides providing comical entertainment, these pep-sessions would not have been complete without the "A" and "B" team cheerleaders and the Pep Band. The competition yell between the boys and girls effectually provided that all-round school spirit needed in making our sports seasons happy ones.

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY junior girls portray Jeff Bronchos in a parody of the Academy Awards Presentation.

Gals Treat Guys to Turn-About Dance

DON REPPERT admires his 1st prize Gallop corsage made by escort, Ellen Mink.

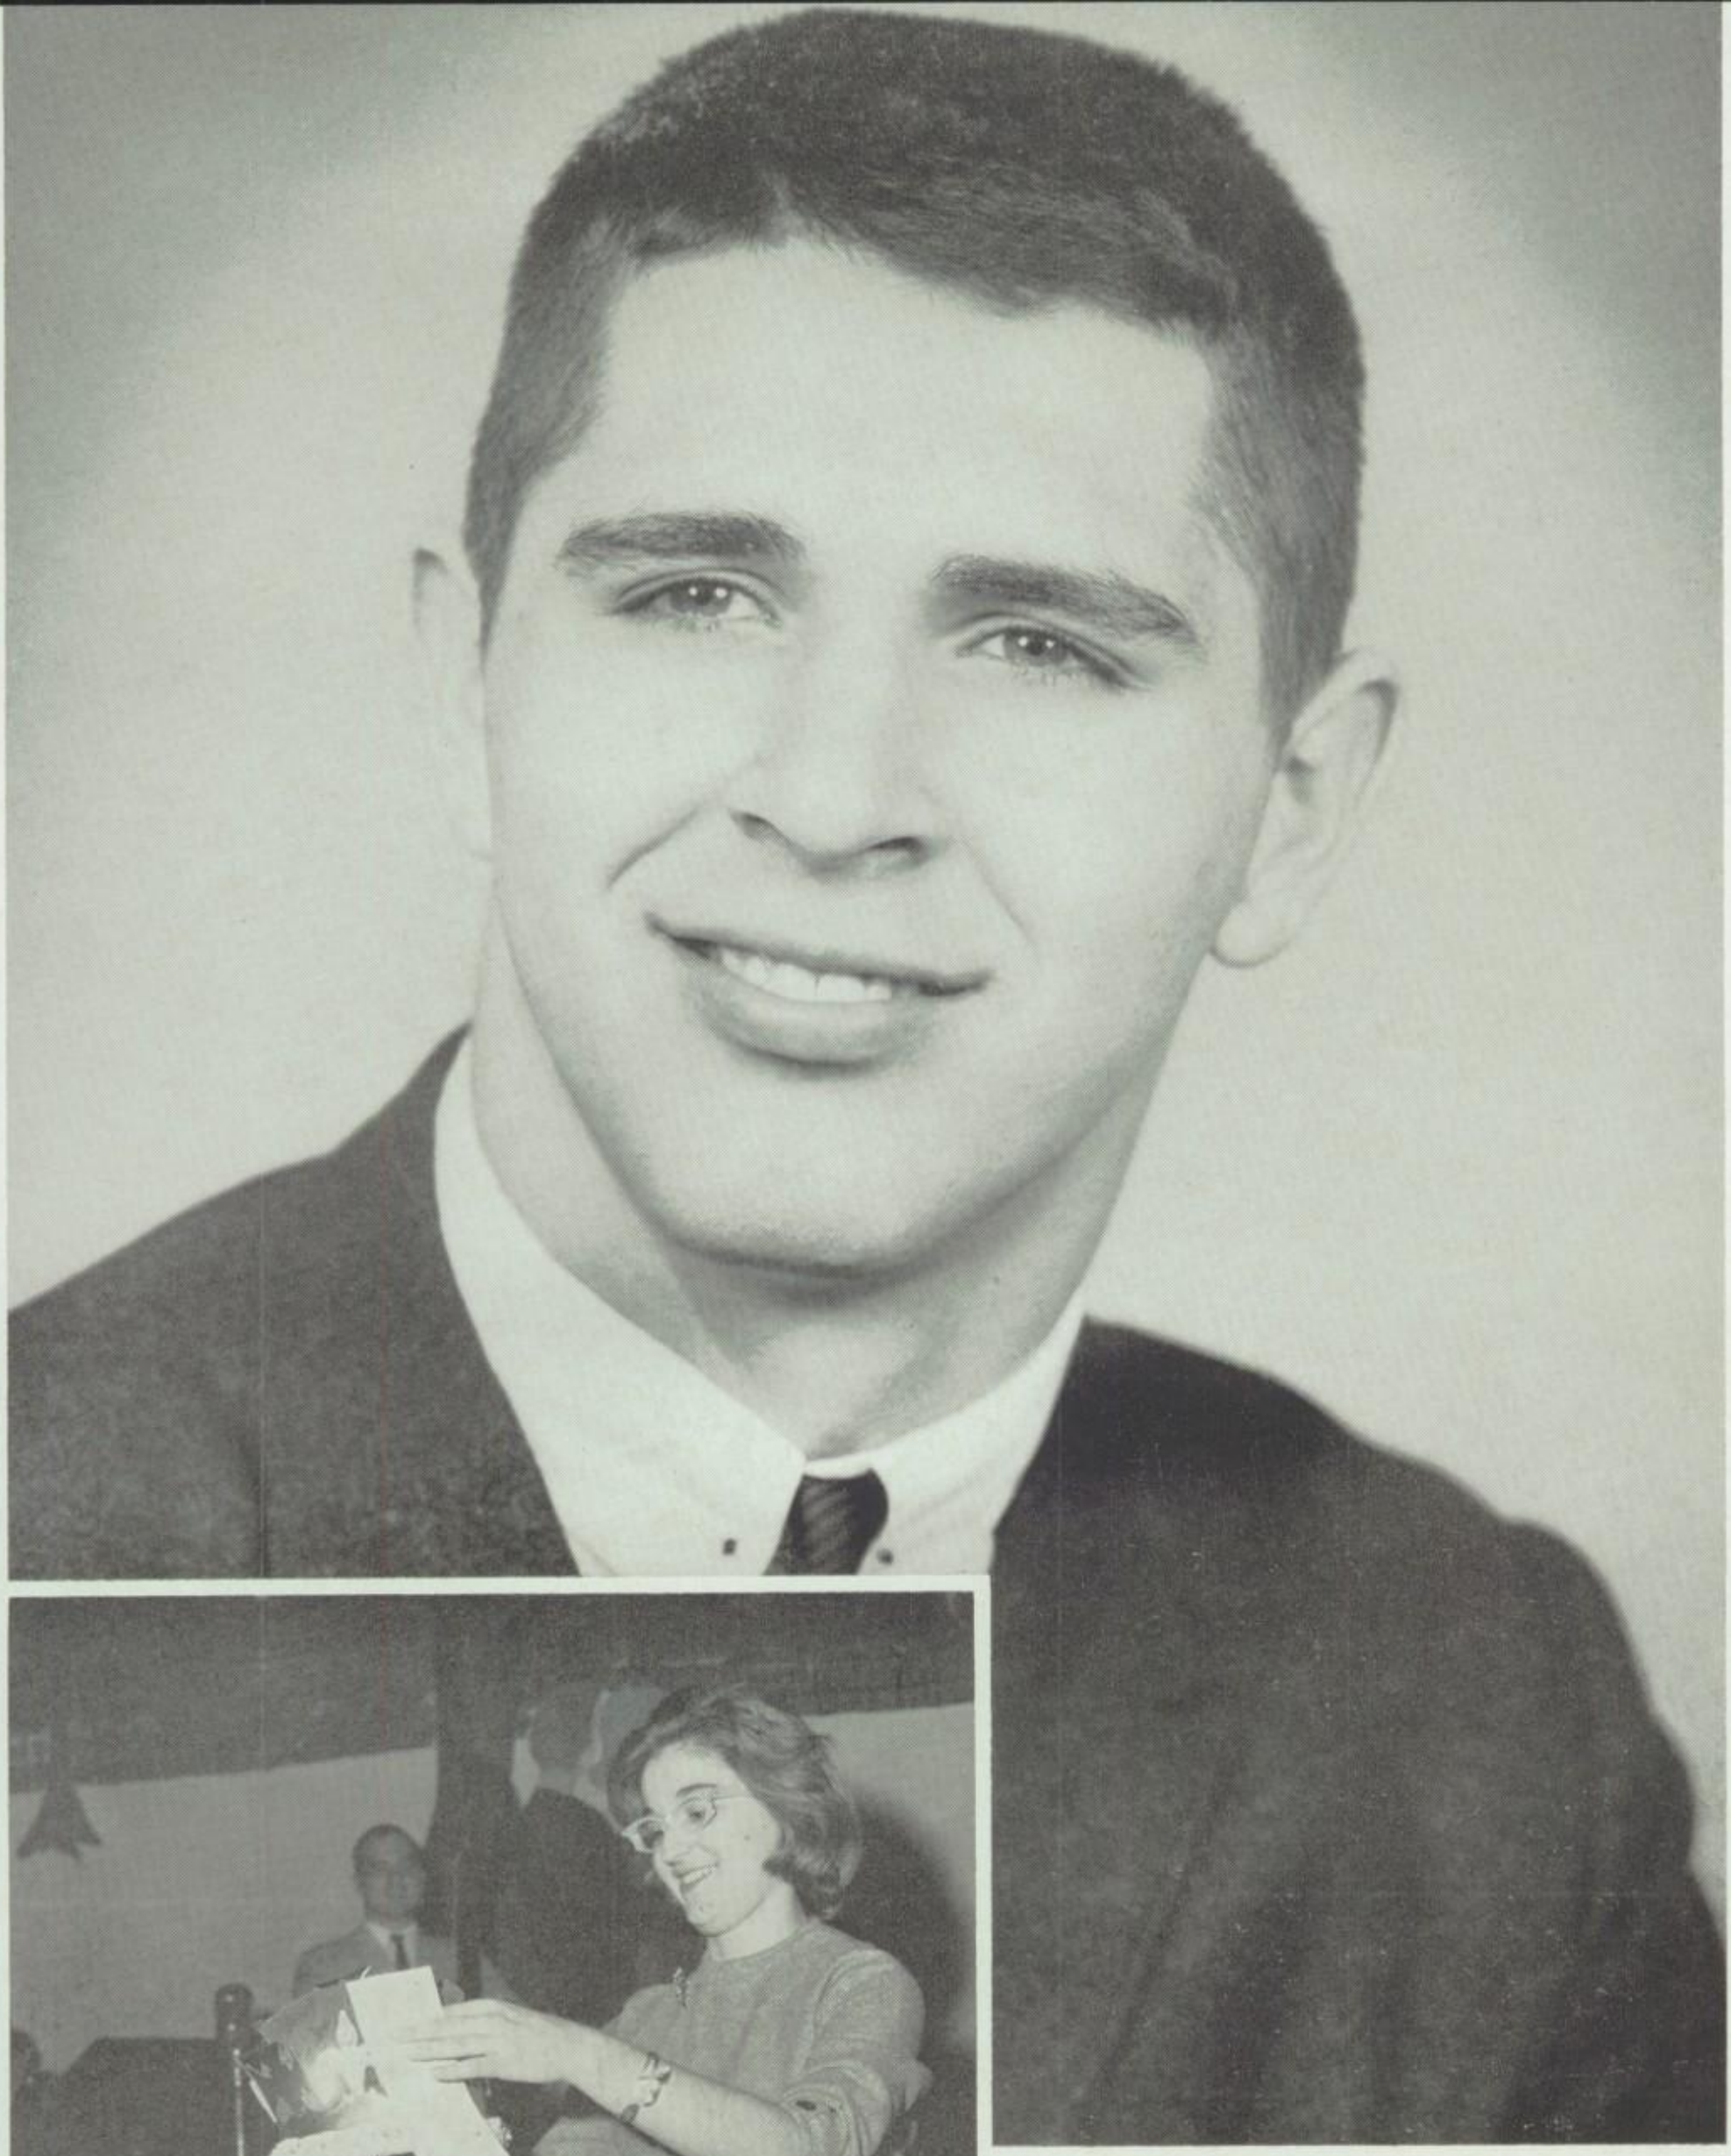
"Shine on Harvest Moon," the theme of the 1961 Gallop, blended appropriately with the autumn season. The dance sponsored by the Sunshine Society was held in the North Ballroom of the Purdue Union Ballroom of the Purdue Union Building from 8:30-11:30. Freddie Mitchell and his band provided excellent music for dancing as couples clad in varied hues swirled around the dance floor like the multi-colored leaves of autumn.

Unique corsages added a touch of humor to the evening, while the crowning of the 1961 Gallop King highlighted it.

Marilyn Boothe, president of the Sunshine Society, crowned Wilkie Terry Gallop King. His court consisted of Tom Young, Jerry Rush, Jim Walker, and Dave McConahay, and Dean Lecklitner.

Tara Balfe and Joyce Hughes served as co-chairmen of the dance.

IT'S TURN-ABOUT-NIGHT! Janet Beckstrand holds Dave Blue's corsage as she opens the car door for him.



A man of sports, Wilkie Terry, was Football Captain and was elected Most Valuable Player by his teammates. Humbly, he accepted the crown for Gallop King.

Joy, Amazement Denotes Homecoming Queen

The spectators roared their approval as Bill Weiler, President of the Student Council, awarded the title of 1960-61 Homecoming Queen to Jackie Rae and presented her with the traditional rhinestone tiara and bouquet of red roses.

With the departure of the girls, the spotlight shifted to the heroes of a few years ago, the 1935 football team.

Couples Enjoy Annual Turkey Trot

LAST MINUTE DETAILS are discussed by dance committee chairmen, Carolyn Myers, Carolyn Kamstra, and Sue Mater.

After stuffing themselves with turkey and all the trimmings of a Thanksgiving dinner, many Jeff students spent Thanksgiving night dancing to the music of Paul Kenny's Orchestra at the annual Turkey Trot.

Decorated with corn shocks and brown and yellow crepe paper, the Home-Economics building of the County Fairgrounds made an ideal setting for the dance. Responsible for the decorations characteristic of the season were Carolyn Kamstra and Kay Smith.

Apple cider and donuts made up the light refreshments of the evening. Linda Tracy and Marsha White served on the refreshments committee.

"DANCING ALONG WITH A DREAM!" So are the many couples celebrating Thanksgiving night.

Convos Provide Knowledge without Books

Away from the class room toil, yet closely related in educational value were the convocations during the 1960-61 school year. Experiences in working with the African people were related to the student body by a representative of the Council of Churches in an October convocation.

Duane Carter, noted race-car driver, was featured at the safety convo in December. He explained the importance of safety in driving. Rabbi William Schwartz from the Temple of Israel spoke at the Thanksgiving convocation. The A Cappella Choir performed for this convocation as well as the Easter and Christmas assemblies.

A surprise convo was held in January when Jefferson High School was awarded an Excellent Rating by Mr. William Wilson, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Logansport High School students presented Jeff with a variety show in March for an exchange convo with Jeff.

BOB KIRKPATRICK, Lubee Price, and Arlene Blistain place their Christmas gifts under the tree.

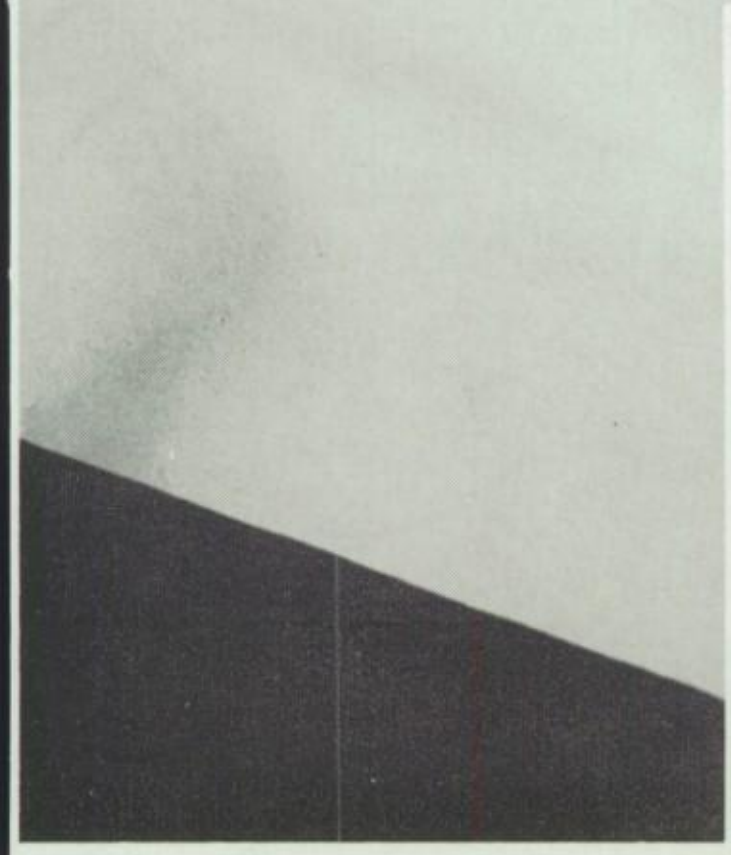
Cupid Takes Advantage of Young Hearts

EAGER COUPLES wait to have their pictures taken before an evening of dancing.

Girls, dressed fit for kings, were escorted by boys, hoping that they, likewise, would pass a queen's approval, as another Queen of Hearts Dance went down in the history of Jeff.

An annual activity of the Hi-Y Council, the dance was held at the Purdue North Ballroom on January 26. Freddie Mitchells' band provided the music which added that special touch to make the evening a happy one for all who attended.

St. Valentine, the 3rd Century Christian Martyr, would have been very pleased indeed if he could have seen Jim McDonald, president of Hi-Y Council, crown Barbara Ebner 1961 Queen of Hearts. He would also have been delighted at seeing the queen's court, which consisted of Barbara Price, Janet Kessen, Carolyn Myers, and Jackie Rae.



Full of personality, Barbara Ebner is Secretary of Student Council and Library Club. She was chosen by the Hi-Y boys to honor the title, Queen of Hearts.

Hoosier Hysteria Beckons Sports Fans

The breathless tension at a rocket launching base before a blast off can't be much worse than the trance prevailing over the crowd as they watch the basketball make a thrilling spin around the basket rim.

Hoping the ball will drop into the basket, the fans chant a refrain of "We gotta win, We gotta win, Let's go!"

The spectator's enthusiastic support aided the team in capturing its 18th consecutive Sectional win. The Bronchos' winning streak was halted by the Frankfort Hot Dogs in an exciting overtime in the first game of the Regionals.

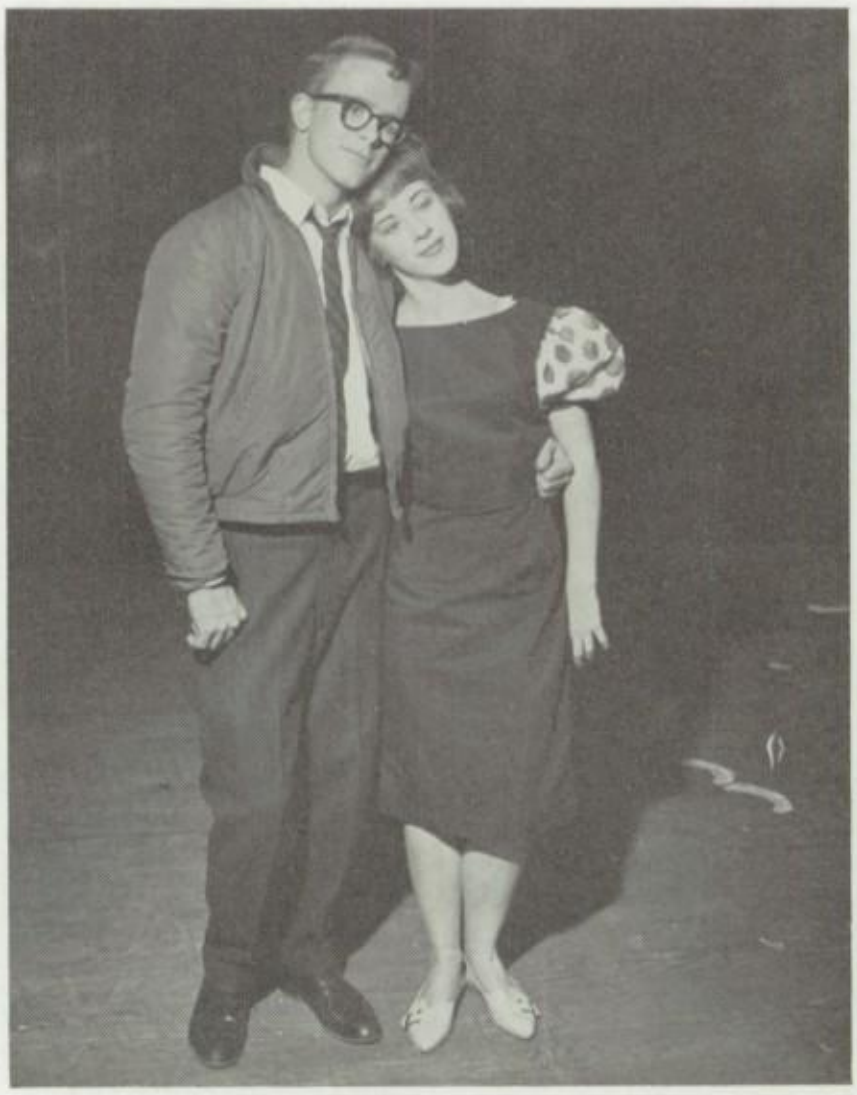
"Rebel" Becomes Smashing Success

"Rebel Without a Cause," a story of a new boy in town who has trouble making friends with the local teenagers was the 1960-61 Senior Play held in March.

Roger Circle played the part of Jim Stark, a confused boy with family difficulties who finds himself involved with the police. Judy Brown, portrayed by Sharon Serey, becomes acquainted with Jim at the police station. This dramatic story describes many of these and other teenagers' problems.

Other Seniors who participated in presenting the play were Steve Overman, Lloyd Hudgens, Tom Prill, Carole Lawrence, Jim Snyder, Joe Smith, Linda Rinker, Anne Swezey, Anne Chenoweth, Gerry Ulrich, Peggy Jones, Jerry Brown, Jerry Rock, Tam Andrews, and Fran Harter.



SHARON SEREY and Roger Circle portray principal characters, Jim Stark and Judy Brown.

A VIOLENT BATTLE! Gang members attack the "new boy in town" and create a dramatic scene for the senior play.

"Monte Carlo" Theme of 1961 Senior Prom

THESE STUDENTS were chosen by their previous work in class activities to lead the prom committees.

WARREN COVINGTON and his band provided Prom music.

Adventure, intrigue, and romance will beckon you to the small principality of Monte Carlo. Such is the locality, theme, and mood for the 1960-61 Senior Prom. To coordinate the plans of each committee, Tari Martin and Jim Hurst were selected for co-chairmen of the Prom. Jerry Lintner and Sue Scholer, as Decoration Chairmen, had the task of creating on canvas the grandeur of the ancient Monaco Palace and the mood of this effervescent, proud city.

The band committee under Bob Williams selected Warren Covington, band leader of the Tommy Dorsey Band. Tickets, programs, invitations, and publicity were under the supervision of Molly McQueen, Kay Smith, Christie Johnson, and Carol Newhard, respectively. The After-Prom Party was headed by Barb Price.

A Cappella Choir Merges Talents to MAKE UP is deftly applied to Jim Lottes by Janice LaPlante.

Jeff's Musical Department selected for their spring choral presentation the charming musical hit, "Brigadoon."

The musical hit centers around two young American's who venture to Scotland to hunt, and find themselves lost in the Highlands. They stumble upon the enchanted town of "Brigadoon," which appears on earth only once every hundred years. The two young men are taken by the charms of the ancient Scottish village and by two young women who live there. Although they return to the United States and "Brigadoon" disappears into the Highland mist, Tommy, the hero, returns. His fate makes "Brigadoon" a delightful musical.

THE HEIGHT OF "BRIGADOON" is reached with a performance of the highland fling.

Reproduce the Broadway Musical "Brigadoon"

The choral organizations combined their talents to present the musical hit, "Brigadoon," in April.

As Walter Whitworth, critic of the Indianapolis News, said in his review, "The young folk had poise. They understood the value of stage deportment. They moved with ease. Their gestures were never meaningless, certainly not amateurish. The whole group acted as an ensemble and the chorus sang extremely well.

"The dialogue had something of a professional air, for no one spoke awkwardly. We were astonished with the air of laconic casualness assumed by Chuck Lynch as Jeff Douglas. Others we enjoyed were Jim Lottes as Tommy, Bob LaGoy as Harry Beaton, Nancy Murphy as Fiona, Janice LaPlante as Meg and Rich Pridemore as Sandy. Our respect goes to the young with talent and to the oldsters who guided the talent."

SCENERY, POSTERS, AND PROPS! Choir members patch and paint on a backdrop for "Brigadoon."

SCORN BUT ADMIRATION is in the eyes of Chuck Lynch for Janice LaPlante.

Seniors Work Diligently for Top Honors,

Excellence is the reward of perseverance as many Jeff scholars will testify. Much effort is exerted by both students and faculty to produce top-ranking scholars who are a credit to both school and community. Credit goes where credit is due when annual scholarships are presented to those who "shine" academically. Aid is offered in varing degrees by various agencies and individuals who are interested in promoting academic studies among deserving pupils.

As this yearbook goes to press, many of the 1961 scholarship winners are unknown. Congratulations are in order to those students who, through their long and thorough studying, have captured these honors. We sincerely hope that these individuals will continue to produce distinguished work.

CHECKING REQUIREMENTS for scholarship applications are Mr. Martin and Jack Evans, a hopeful participant.

Graduation

With a misty eye toward the future, Jeff seniors prepare for one of the most meaningful and memorable events of their lives, graduation. To the seniors, graduation is both a time for reminiscing and a time for looking toward the future. College lies ahead for some students, while interesting careers await others.

Each student has in some manner contributed to his class and school during his years at Jeff. Each carries with him memories of trials and tribulations, of friends and acquaintances, and of good times and bad. Experiences encountered during the school years will be profitable to the student in later life.

Whether it be a goal post, home plate, or center of the track, sports presents a double thrill: one for the participant and one for the spectator. Each new season initiates renewed hopes, challenges, and results; but one element is constant. We strive for moral stature, the love of the game, and the satisfaction of fair play. For these essentials we preserve . . .

Crawleymen Complete Season with Good Tally

For five months we join the popcorn-munching, nerve-jangling, and fun-loving basketball crowds in the gym. The Broncho varsity basketball team was again coached by the famous master of basketball, Marion Crawley.

The squad won twelve of its contests, including two overtime games, and lost only eight despite its shortage of returning lettermen. Bill Weiler, Tom Miller, and Wayne Wilson were the returnees from the previous Jeff squad. More than half of the club's members were juniors and sophomores, so Jeff fans can look forward to an even better season next year.

Coach Crawley used many different combinations during the year. However, the twelve Jeffmen listed on the programs for the Sectionals were Meredith Altherr, Bob Rhoda, Wayne Wilson, Jim Minniear, Dick Douglas, Russ Barrick, Bill Weiler, Al McFarland, Chuck Scheumann, Tom Miller, Ron Taylor, and Dave Stormont.

Colts Emerge with 19 Victories, 4 Losses

As the gym opens, the concession stands light up, and bleachers are filled, the junior varsity basketball team takes the spot light.

Coached by Sam Lyboult, the Jeff squad produced an excellent seasonal tally of nineteen victories and four defeats. The Colts lost to Lebanon in the first game of the year, but then they won a string of ten contests. Following this, they were defeated by Garrett, Muncie Central, and Indianapolis Tech. The club, however, finished the season by routing the opposition in the last nine games.

The team outmaneuvered the squads from Rossville, Attica, Hammond, Anderson, Frankfort, Catholic Youth Organization, Terre Haute Gertsmeyer, West Lafayette, Crispus Attucks, Marion, Logansport, New Castle, Crawfordsville, Richmond, Kokomo, Valparaiso, and Southwestern.

Jeff 324 (6th) Sectional

Jeff 317 (4th) Conference

Grassy links, golf balls, and clubs are all that is necessary to inspire the Broncho golf team. The golf squad of 1960 experienced another building year. Only one letterman, Dave Edmondson, previously of the junior varsity squad, returned to aid the golfers. The other junior was Glenn Fletcher. Four sophomores provided the backbone of the team; they were Dan Smith, Jim Anderson, Mike Douglass, and Tom Anderson. Dan Smith, who usually shoots in the high seventies, paced the squad. The coach was Sam Lyboult, replacing former coach John Lazar.

The Jeff team earned the fourth position in the North Central Conference match with the lowest combined tally of its season, an excellent 317, for the four Broncho competitors. However, the record shows that the young golfers won only six contests, lost sixteen, and tied one.

Cindermen Share Honors with Red Devils

Track meet spectators amble through the warm afternoon sun to observe the skills of discus-throwers, pole-vaulters, and half-mile runners. Jefferson's track squad of 1960 earned the second place in the Central Indiana Conference Meet by edging out the Broncho's traditional rival, West Lafayette, 52-48. Later in the season, however, the Red Devils turned the tables by defeating the Jeff team in the Sectional Meet, 40⅓-30. In dual meets, three teams were crushed under the feet of the Jeff cindermen.

Key thinlies of the 1960 squad who graduated were Dan Mosier, Ed Lemond, Kenny Justice, Dick Johnson, Larry Harmon, and Cloid Shuler. The Jeffmen were coached by Earl Heninger and John Conley.

The sweet smell of apple cider, the glare of the field lights, and the brisk chill of the night air means football season to hundreds of Jeff fans.

With a record of four wins and six losses, the Jeff varsity football team, which lost twenty-three senior lettermen from last year, won all except two home games, but lost all the away games. Wilkie Terry was named the Most Valuable Player by his teammates; Bill Weiler and he were co-captains. Dick Skibinski served his first year as head coach.

A two-year winning streak ended for the junior varsity squad when it was defeated by Logansport, 26-21, in the first game of the season. However, the Colts won or tied all other contests, including a tie in another clash with the Logan team. The final tally was three wins, two ties, and one loss. The coach for the squad was Harry Green.

Cross Country Squad Runs with the Best

Jeff's Harriers fared well in the three, four, five, and six-way meets, but they lost four out of five of their dual contests. Sam Lyboult coached the runners.

Jeff sponsored three invitationals. The cross country squad received third out of four in a battle with Marion, Delphi, and Frankfort; second in a meet with Klondike and East Tipp; and second in a match with Tipton and Attica. The running Bronchos raced to a third out of five in the Central Indiana Conference Meet and a second among six squads at the Frankfort Relay.

In dual meets the team earned its sole victory from Southwestern's squad, which reversed the decision in a later match. Jeff was also defeated by Kokomo, Logansport, and Battle Ground, the squad which later won the state.

Matmen Show Stamina in Wrestling Meets

Wrestling involves much more than T.V. freak displays. Timing, skill, and coordination are important to a successful matman.

Bill Cate earned the third spot in the State Wrestling Meet. He won first in the Sectionals and second in the Regionals. Two other Bronchos, Tom Richardson and Jim Hurst, participated in the Regionals Meet which was held at Purdue University.

The co-captains of the Jeff squad were seniors Hurst and Richardson. Jim Hurst was made the most valuable wrestler and was also the only returning letterman. The varsity lettermen were Hurst, Richardson, Bob Straw, Wilkie Terry, and Herb Everson, seniors; Bill Cate, Jerry McDole, and Tom Hays, juniors; and Dick McNeely and Bruce Overly, sophomores. The varsity manager was Glenn Stephenson. Norm Willey was the head wrestling coach, and Dick Skibinski was his assistant.

Slicing a minute here and whittling a second there, the swimming team worked to improve each member's skill during the year.

Three of Jeff's swimmers placed in the State Swimming Meet. Jim Eason, the sole senior on the swim squad and the most valuable Broncho swimmer, won one point with a sixth place in the fifty-yard free style. The other two Jeff tankers are Ray Wyant, a sophomore who raced to seventh place in the one-hundred yard breast-stroke, and Mike Taylor, a junior who sped to a seventh spot in the two-hundred yard individual medley. Jeff finished fifteenth out of twenty-three schools.

Remembering that Jefferson lacks a swimming pool and the YMCA, where the tankmen practice, does not have a large pool or adequate diving facilities, the Bronchos had a fair season. Their coach was John Conley, and their Captain was Mike Taylor.

Bowlers Compete for League Championship

The members of the Bowling League bowled at the Lafayette Alleys almost every Thursday for six months. The sports organization was initiated in October and continued into April. In the fall each person bowled three games to determine his average, and then the members were divided into teams.

After fifty-seven team games, but before the end of the season, Bob Strong's squad led the standings with record of forty-two wins and fifteen losses. This team was composed of Bill Elliott, Ron Sutherlin, and Captain Bob Strong. However, Dave Haun's bowlers had a good chance of becoming the League champions since they had lost only one more game than Strong's squad. The members of Haun's team were Dick Emery, Janice Ogden, and Dave Haun.

Dick Emery had the highest score in the singles tournament, and he and Bob Strong combined to win the doubles. Ron Sutherlin posted a 567 which broke Dave Haun's set score of 566, which had been the previous record.

1960 Broncho Nine Ties for Loop Trophy

The diamond of Columbian Park harbors the Jeff teammates and baseball enthusiasts during the spring months.

By defeating Muncie in a 6-3 game, the 1960 varsity baseball team tied New Castle for the North Central Conference crown. The record of the Broncho sluggers in N. C. C. games was 7-1. In all of its contests, the team defeated thirteen ball clubs and lost to only two, Crawfordsville, 4-7, and New Castle, 2-4. It captured an important thirteen-inning battle with Kokomo, 3-2.

Coach Paul Fields' Jefferson squad was composed almost entirely of seniors with several years of experience. These seniors were Bob Adams, Bob Arnold, Ron Blue, Bill Bresnahan, Dave Dant, Gary Dixon, Don Dykhuizen, Bill Eylens, Tom Leach, Dave McKenzie, Gary Martin, Warren Smith, and Larry Vanderwielen. The only lettermen returning to the 1961 squad are Bill Weiler and Mike Lemond.

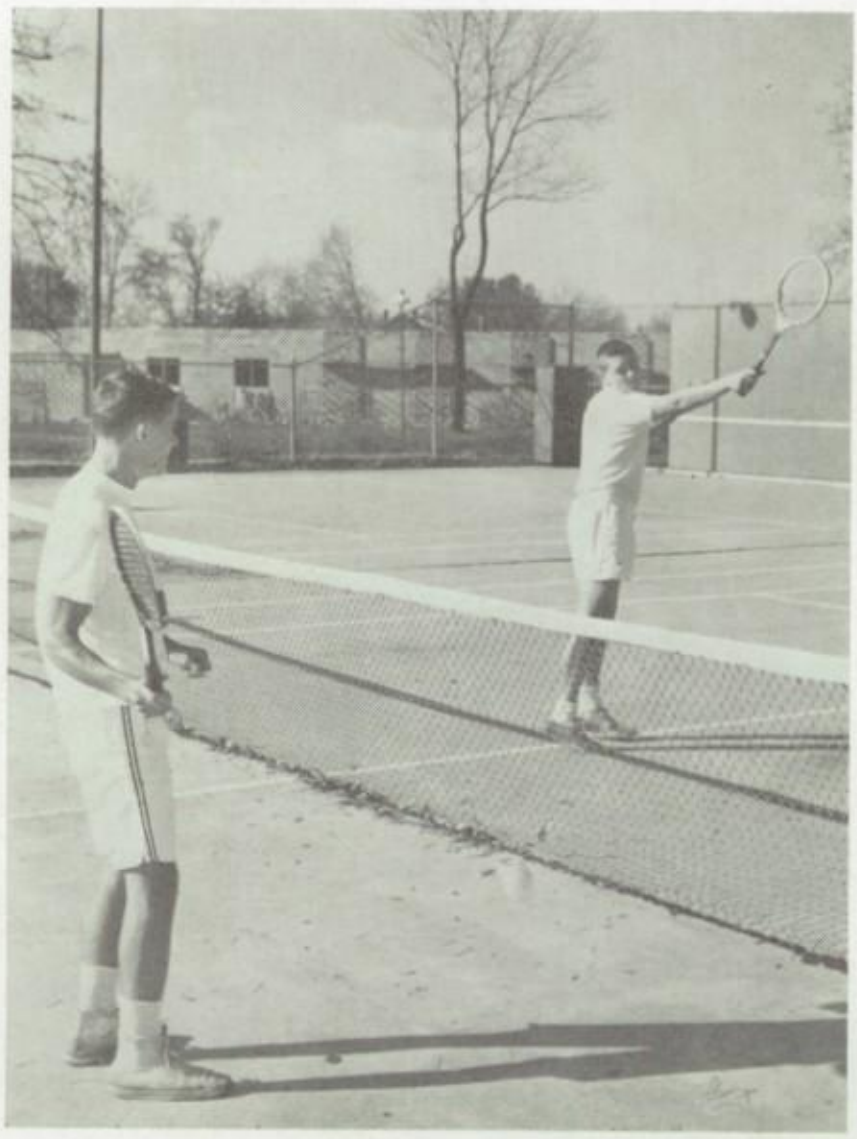
Racketeers Win Second N. C. C. Crown



JIM DYKHUIZEN returns the ball to Mike DeBoy.

Coached by Jack Hopkins, the Jeff 1960 tennis squad won the North Central Conference championship for the second consecutive season. Three of the five victorious netmen were seniors; they were Jim McNeely, Norm Hertzer, and Tom Ross. The remaining two were sophomore Mike DeBoy and freshman Jim Dykhuizen. These two boys will return for the 1961 season and will be aided by Dave Scheussler, now a junior. The other two spots will be filled by Jack Evans or Jim McDonald, seniors now, or freshman Lynn Kanable. These netmen will defend their N.C.C. title and attempt to continue a string of nineteen consecutive conference victories.

The squad won only one of the first six matches. After Captain Jim McNeely returned, the team won its last ten games. Its overall record was eleven wins and five losses, those being to North Central, West Lafayette, Peru, Bloomington University, and Danville, Illinois.

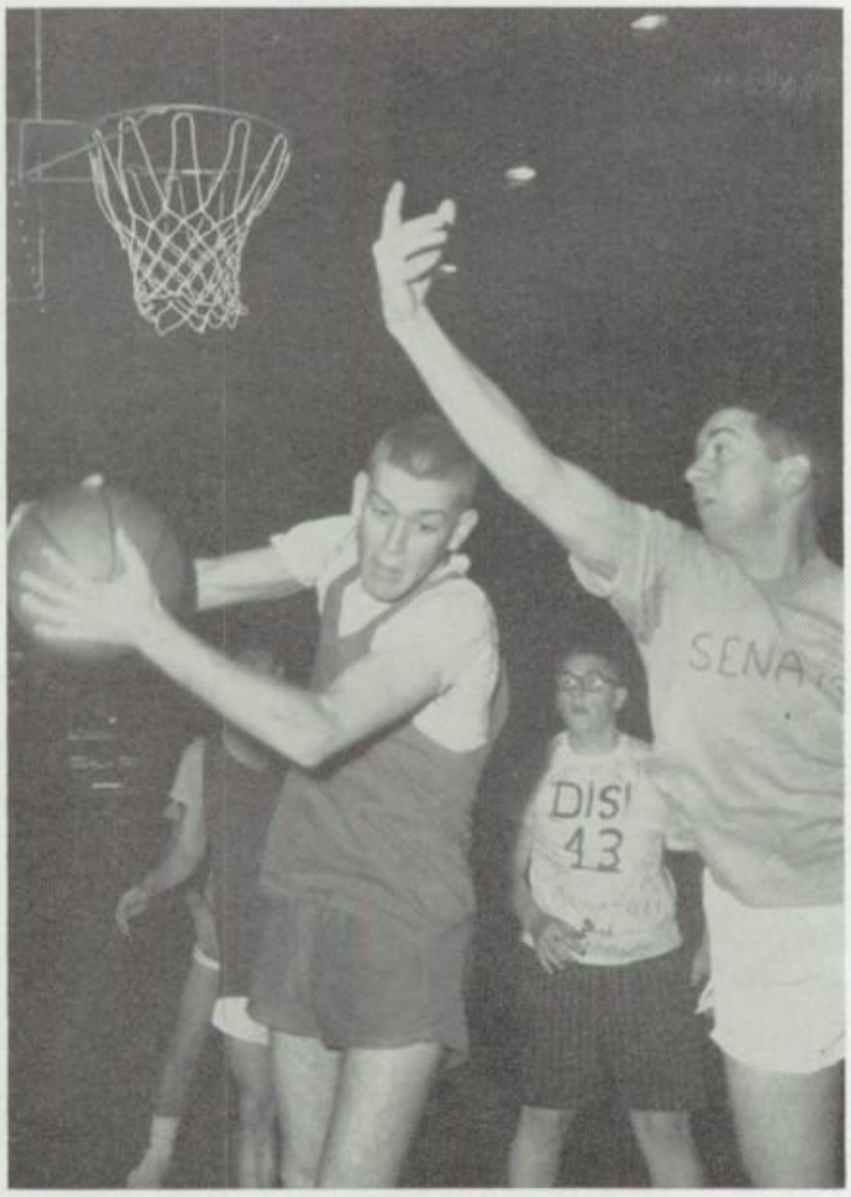
Elated Senators Win Intramural Contest



JIM LESLIE, a Weasel, got the rebound; but Bob Williams, "Dish" Skadberg, and team won game.

Purple tennis shoes, black T-shirts, and striped basketballs could belong to no one else but the intramural basketball teams.

Robert Stormont initiated a new intramural basketball program at Jeff this year. It consisted of two divisions. Division "A" had eight teams, and division "B" had seven. The Rebels won the league championship in division "A," and the Weasels won in "B."

Near the end of the season a double-elimination tournament was held. Each team was allowed to play in the tourney until it had lost two games. In division "A" the Rebels were victorious. In "B" the Senators defeated Marty's Mangled Meatballs to win. In the playoff the Senators trounced the Rebels, 53-37.

The teams in the "A" division were the Mighty Mites, Indiana State, Rebels, Spark Plugs, Denny's Demons, Moose's Marauders, Chinese Bandits, and Sidewinders. Division "B" consisted of the Road Runners, Marty's Mangled Meatballs, Jollies Haunchers, Ridge Runners, Senators, Vultures, and Weasels.

THE SENATORS won their division and then defeated the Rebels to win the intramural championship.

Girls from the participating schools combine to form teams and compete for prizes of the day. The Jeff G.A.A. has attended a Play Day at Southwestern, Crawfordsville, and Indiana State Teacher's College.

G.A.A. presents biweekly activity to any girl who is interested in promoting the importance of physical fitness and the sense of fair play. This year the girls explored the fundamentals of eleven different sports ranging from softball to table tennis.

Officers for 1960-1961 were Barb Davis, President; Judy Gilmore, Vice President; Judy Clement, Secretary; and Doris Hill, Treasurer.

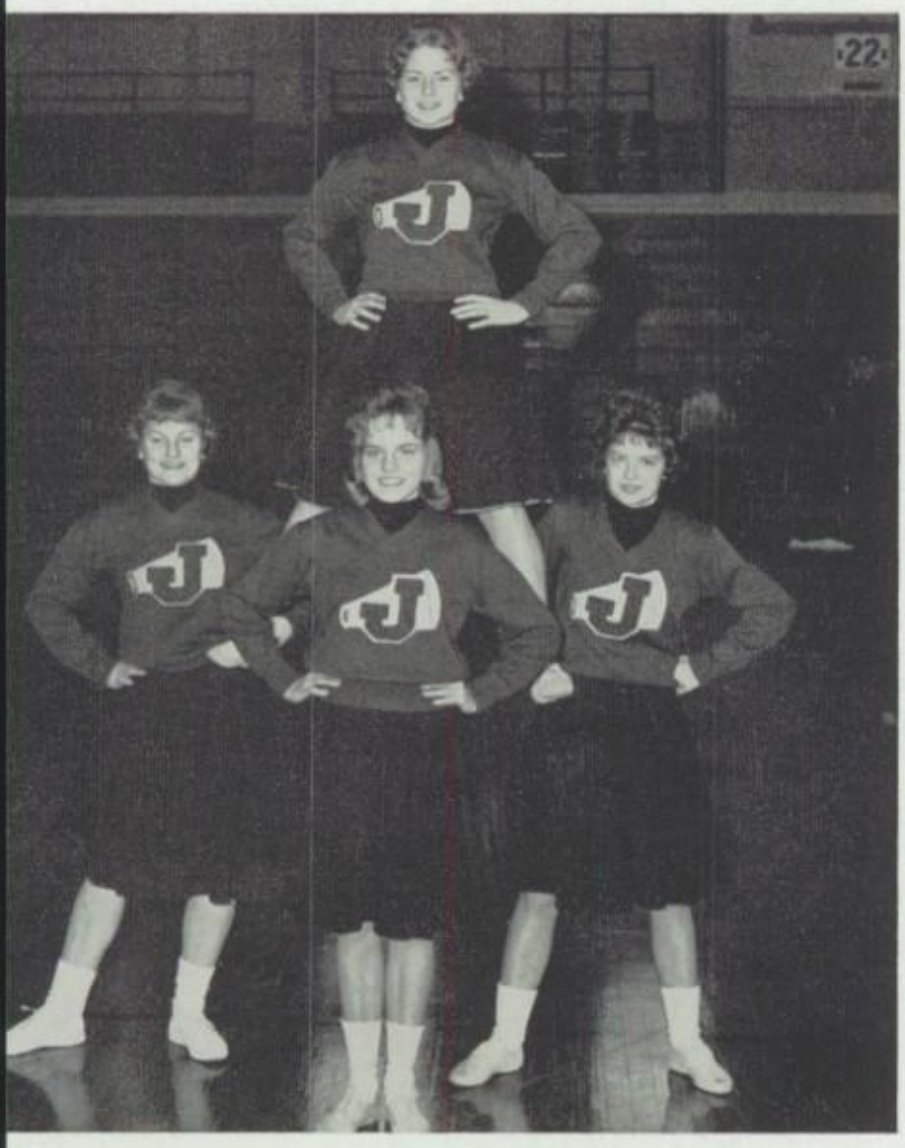
Cheerleaders Arouse Loyalty for Jeff



JANET MCADAMS, Carol York, Jeanette Bosworth, and Charlene Johnson yell for the junior varsity ball teams.

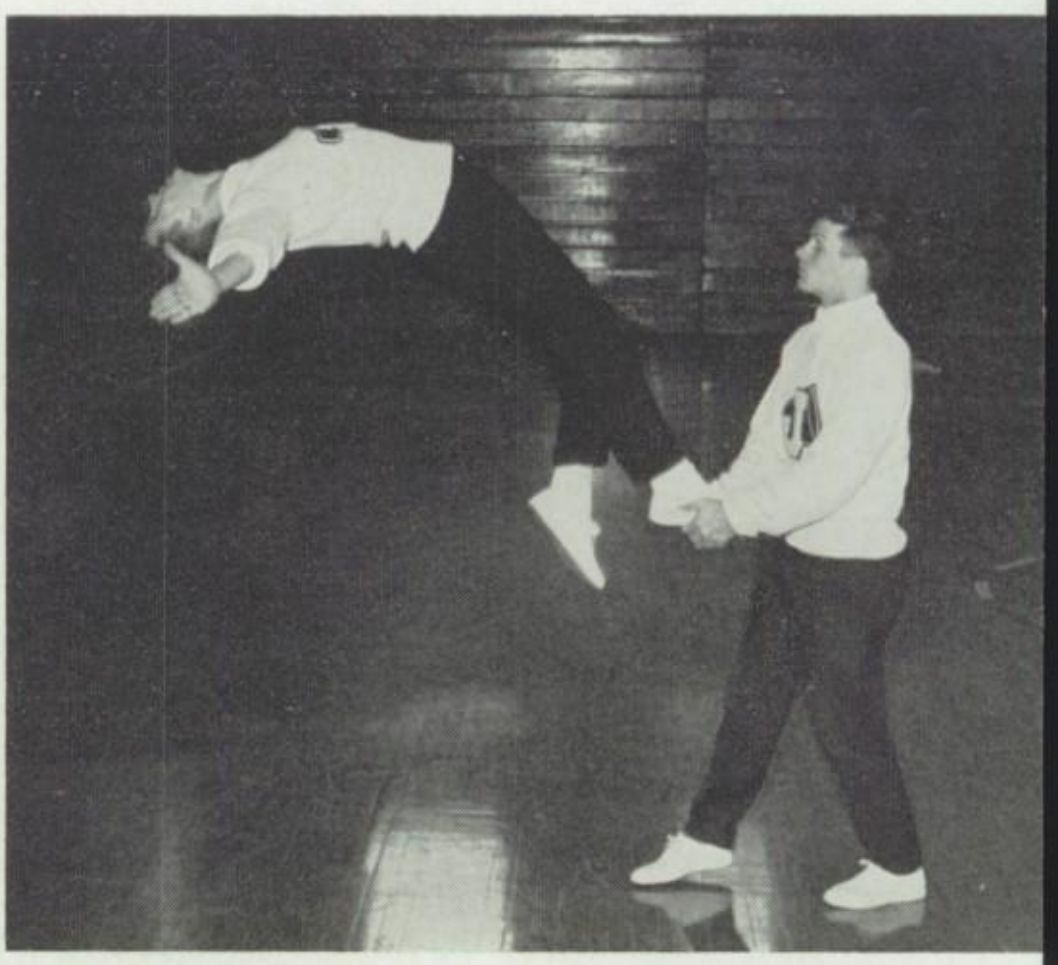
"Comrades, friends, and brothers too"—the pep-band swings into the ever-famous tune of our school song. The entire student body is bubbling over with the spirit needed to capture those necessary basketball and football victories.

What gives the students this enthusiasm? It's those girls dressed in kilt skirts and Broncho sweaters, who are constantly yelling, clapping, and directing every bit of the spectators' energy to the boys on the court or field.

Besides directing cheers at the games, the cheerleaders plan a tea for the sectional cheerleaders, the annual homecoming, and the preparations for pep-sessions.

An advisory board was newly organized this year to provide better communication between the students and the cheerleaders. The board, composed of eight student representatives and three faculty advisors, offers constructive criticism and suggestions to the cheerleaders and assists them in their various functions.

J-CLUB CHEERLEADERS Jim Eason and Tom Richardson provide well-timed acrobatic yells.



CHRISTIE JOHNSON, Sally Ingleman, Pam Miller, and Janet Beckstrand are varsity cheerleaders.

Managers Serve Jeff Athletic Squads

Eleven managers assisted the coaches and aided the athletes in Jeff's various sports during the 1960-1961 school year. They performed the vital tasks of repairing athletic equipment such as broken football helmets, providing for the comfort of the players such as passing towels around a basketball huddle, administering first aid by bandaging a minor cut, and helping the coaches by recording the scores.

Aiding the gridmen were Tom Wray, Dick Zimmerman, and Bob Shaffer. The basketball managers were Bob Skadberg, Tom Wray, and Bob Shaffer. Managing the varsity matmen was Glenn Stephenson, with Bill Hicks assisting the other grapplers. Jim Beeker managed the cross country runners and J. W. Ramsey, the netmen. The managers for the cindermen were Glenn Stephenson, Terry O'Connell, Alistair Dyer, and David Dyer.

MANAGERS TOM WRAY, Dick Zimmerman, and Jim Mink fold the athletic equipment and store it in a trunk.

Block Adds Spirit to Win the Fight

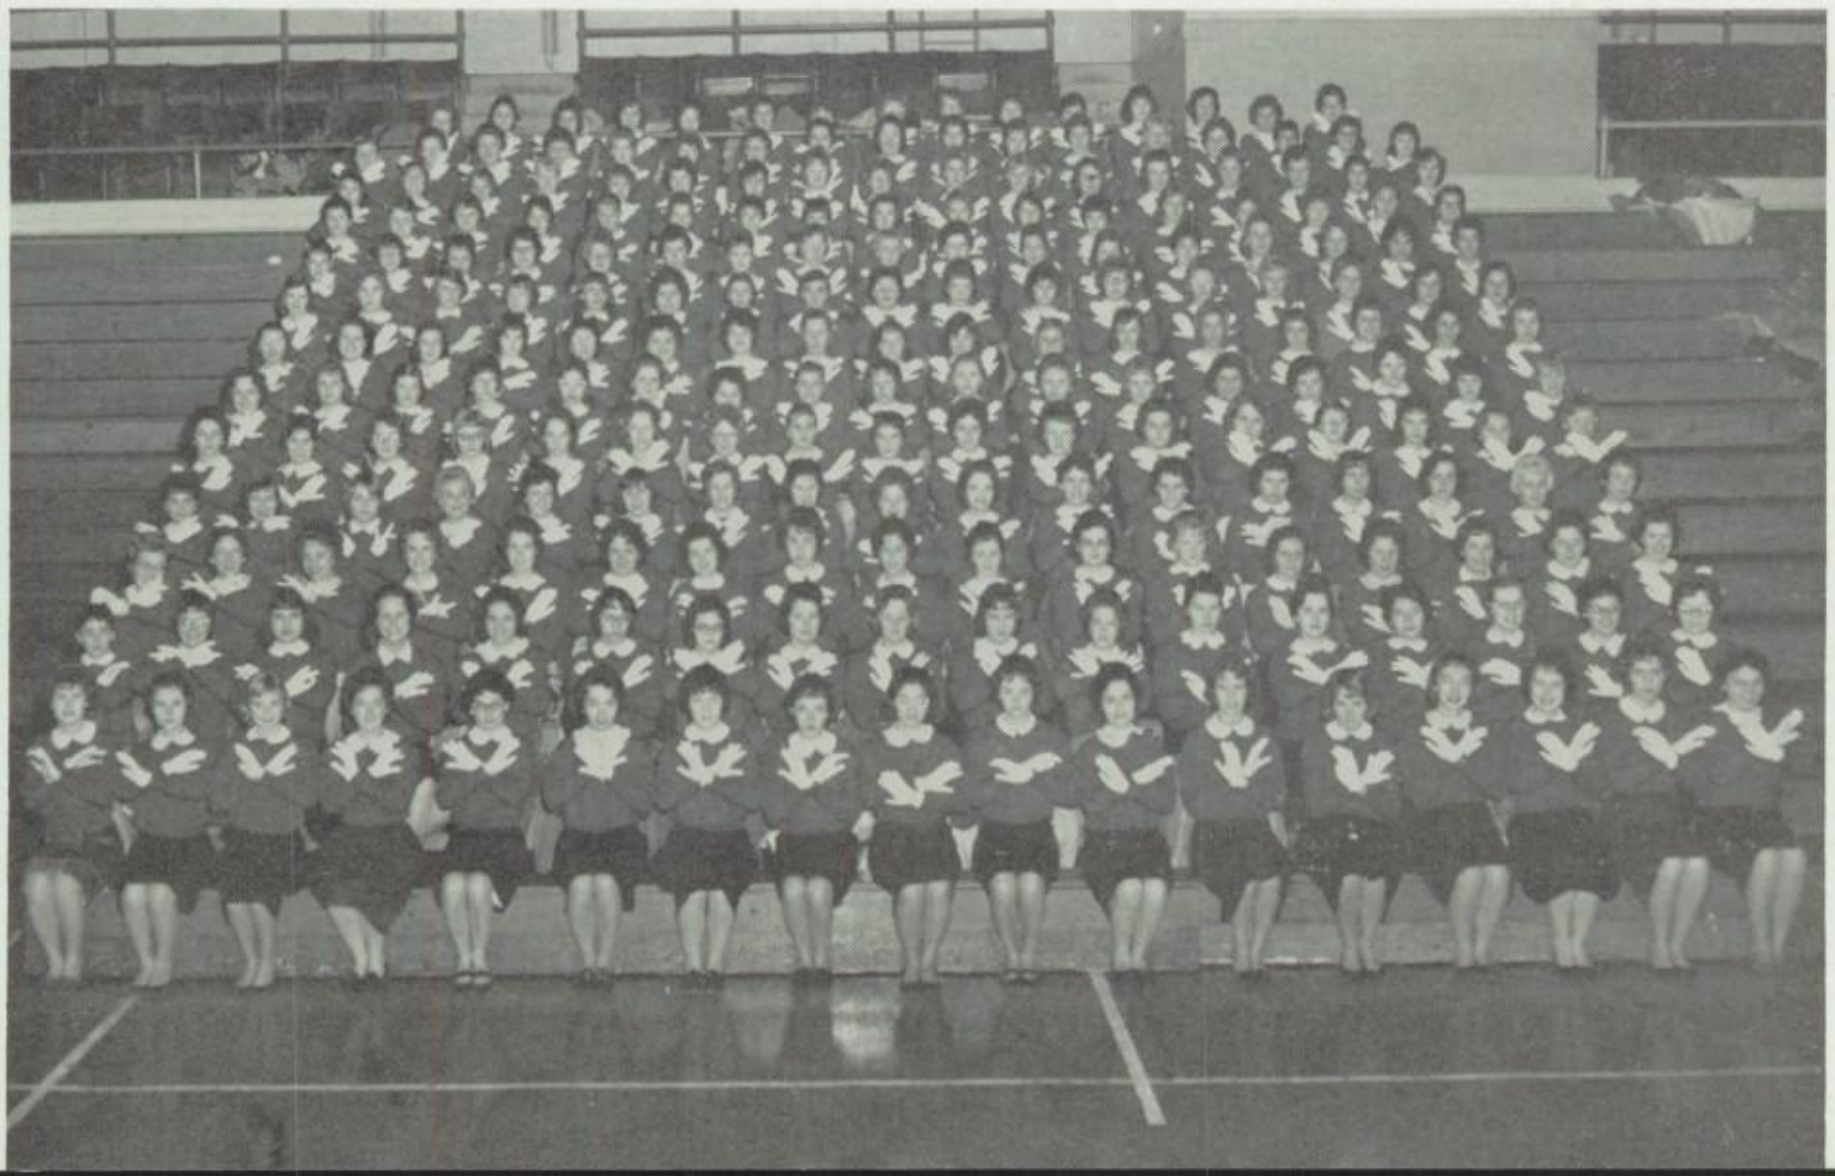
CO-CAPTAINS Jeannine Schaal and Patty Miller make last-minute attendance checks before the Block Section marches into the gym.

"Go, you Bronchos! Go! Go, you Bronchos!" 221 peppy junior and senior girls respond with rousing spirit and enthusiasm at each home basketball game to spur the Broncho ball players on.

Eye-catching, traditional red block section sweaters worn with white gloves were the attire for the year. For variety throughout the basketball season black sweaters against the red produced the block "J" formation. To contribute to the Yuletide spirit, the group formed a Christmas tree.

The Captain was Jeanine Schaal, assisted by Pat Miller, and sponsored by Miss Carolyn Griffin.

TWO HUNDRED TWENTY-ONE girls present block formations during basketball time-outs.



Talking ten minutes in the hall before class, rushing for the same table at lunch each day, waiting at a certain door after school—These images illustrate our comradeship and show that our lives at Jeff are happy ones, filled with that understanding which we share with our contemporaries . . .

Board Governs Policy of School City

J. RUSSELL HIATT, Superintendent of the School City, presides over the School Board.

Commanding officers of the Lafayette School Administration, Mr. J. Russell Hiatt, superintendent of the city schools, and the School Board work hand in hand in determining the policies of Lafayette's education system.

Plans were made this year for improving the biology labs at Jeff. The Board was also watchful for any exceptional increase or decrease in the grade-school enrollment so that when these students have reached the high-school level, Jeff will be able to accommodate them adequately.

The board members were honored at the convocation in which Mr. Hiatt accepted the first-class rating bestowed upon Jefferson High School.

Administration Utilizes Executive Powers

MR. CECIL WEBB, Principal, utilizes his executive powers by delegating a task to Vicki Rauch.

The executive powers of Jeff are executed by an administration which has proven itself to be both tolerant and helpful to the student body. Cecil Webb, principal, heads the administration and is faced with all the major problems of the school. V. D. Montgomery, assistant principal, is in charge of the discipline and attendance as well as managing the office. Minor problems needing consultation are directed to the three class counselors. Advisor for the senior class, Charles Martin, fulfills his duty by seeing that every senior is prepared to graduate. Junior class counselor, Bill Levering, prepares the juniors for their more important high school year by advising them as to their course of study. The sophomores entering Jeff as strangers are oriented by Mrs. Gertrude Krueger.

THE HAPPY COUNTENANCE of Vice-Principal V. D. Montgomery is often seen at lunch.

JEFF'S GUIDANCE COUNSELORS are responsible for constituting the scheduling of classes.

MRS. OVERTON and Mrs. Torrenga check absent reports.

MISS SCHRADER and Miss Harrington, who work in the central office, are familiar to all students.

SCHOOL CITY STAFF, Miss Askren, Miss Bogan, and Mrs. Reppert are located in the Superintendent's office.

Office Staffs Efficiently Fulfill Duties

It takes the ability of a cashier, typist, and auditor to perform the numerous tasks required of a school secretary. The general office secretaries, Miss Mary Harrington and Miss Regina Schrader, more than fulfill these duties. Mrs. Doris Willis in her first year at Jeff served as Principal Webb's secretary.

Mrs. Betty Torrenga and Mrs. Mary Overton are in charge of the investigation of school absences. The planning and providing for the daily cafeteria lunches is conducted by Mrs. Mary McDowell and her assistant, Mrs. Frances Taylor.

The secretary to Marion Crawley, Mrs. Marian Howell, maintains the Athletic Department. Miss Nancy Bogan, Miss Catheryn Askren, Miss Iris Palmer, and Mrs. Nellie Reppert conduct business of the school city.

MRS. WILLIS, an addition to the staff in 1960, performs the secretarial duties of Cecil Webb, principal.

MRS. HOWELL handles the athletic office business.

MRS. MCDOWELL looks at menu plans with Mrs. Taylor.

Best wishes -

BEFORE AN EARLY MORNING SPEECH trip Mr. Hawker checks to see that all students are present.

A SUNNY AFTERNOON prompted Linda Dierstein and Miss Griffin to forget school and play a game of golf.

Class of '61: 50th to Graduate

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS Jim Leslie, Sue Mater, and Jerry Rush, review plans for coming activities.

Amid the admiring glances of underclassmen, the senior struts down the hall attired for the first time in the traditional senior cord. The customary procedure of donning the senior cord is a symbol of the four years of effort put forth by the wearer in order to assume the responsibilities of an upperclassman. Memories of accomplishments and enjoyable times are willed to the underclassman as the senior prepares to enter the world and accept its challenges.

Highlighting the active year is the senior prom which is made possible by various projects performed by the class. Penney's Day is an exciting experience in which the seniors with a knack for salesmenship get their first view of the business world. Seniors prove their scholastical abilities in the National Merit Scholarship test held in October.

MARTY SMITH gets assistance from Christie Johnson in choosing graduation announcements.

JIM LESLIE attempts to persuade a customer to purchase a magazine subscription.

Juniors Work Diligently for Final Year

JR. CLASS officers, Lois Friedman, Dave Blue, and John Postlethwait, check the class's financial state.

The ring-craze hit the junior class again this year when class rings were distributed in October. After the usual excitement, the class settled down and made a big success of the Christmas wrapping-paper sale.

In February all juniors were required to take the senior math test. The National Merit Scholarship test was an optional test taken by the juniors in March. Members of the class also attended High School Junior Day which was held again this year at Purdue University.

Junior class members operated a check room and concession stand at the Senior Prom. The following day, they reluctantly pulled staples from the bleachers and cleaned the remains of the decorations, hoping that next year they would be members of the prom committee instead of the clean-up committee.

BARBARA HAWKS and Marilyn Osterling pay the balance on their class rings to Mr. Dunn, ring salesman.

Sophomores Have Successful First Year

JERRY ROBINSON, Lynne Leech, and Denny Dewey, class officers, confer on the class achievements.

When the word "underclassman" is spoken, it creates a number of mental images. An underclassman is often thought of as an immature person who is totally confused and awed by his new environment. On the other hand, the "underclass" is looked upon as an industrious individual who is fulfilling the requirements necessary to proceed to the junior class.

The 1960-61 sophomore class was indeed an industrious one. Mixers, paper drives, and various other activities highlighted the agenda of the class. The selling of beatnik and cartoon stationery provided the means of supplying the class treasury.

The combined efforts of class officers, watchful advisors, and loyal, interested class members assured the success of the sophomore class.

JUDY VON SEGGERN turns in her stationery money.

From tennis shoes that survive all year to tuxedos that are aired for one night, members of the Jeff student body are conducting transactions with the businesses of Lafayette. Sales are inevitable in our lives; whether we're selling our personalities to a new friend, selling tickets to a Broncho Booster, or on the other hand, purchasing a hamburger, french fries, and a coke.

Acknowledgements

The Nautilus Staff of 1961 is proud to produce the yearbook of Jefferson High School's Golden Anniversary. Therefore, we are especially grateful for the earnest assistance of all those who have contributed to making our sketches a reality.

Personal thanks from the Literary Staff are extended to Mrs. Marian Gettings, Miss Carolyn Griffin, and Mr. Sterling Jackson for the time they devoted to aiding the copywriters. We appreciate the efforts of Jack Swezey, Photo Arts, and Delmar Studio, and Phillips Photo Center for excellent pictures and photographic aid. Our book was mechanically produced by Lafayette Engraving Co. and Lafayette Printing Co. S. K. Smith and Co. receive a special thank-you for the personal attention they gave to our cover.

The classified advertising was handled by Mr. Robert Leavitt. Our sincere gratitude is forwarded to the Lafayette merchants who sponsored our book with advertising.

Mrs. Jacquelin Willis coordinated our finances, and Miss Regina Schrader and Miss Mary Harrington sold subscriptions throughout the year from the General Office.

We thank the administration and faculty for their understanding cooperation. And finally, we hope that the 1961 Nautilus fulfills the dreams of the Jeff student body who have published the book.
